Defiant Dayton School Board Faces Court Today

JUDGE ISSUES ULTIMATUM TO OPEN CLASSES

Contempt of Court Hearing Confronts 5 Refusing to Re-open Buildings.

GET COURT LECTURE

'Don't Be Quitters,' Jurist Tells Them; Quintet Sticks to Closing Order.

(By United Press)

DAYTON — Five members of the Dayton board of education, steadfast in their refusal to reopen the public schools here until operating finances are in sight, were summoned before Common Pleas Judge Null M. Hodapp on contempt of court proceedings today.

Judge Hodapp lectured the five board members in his courtroom on the advisability of reopening the schools, closed for two days, and gave them 24 hours to comply with a court order he had issued previously. The ultimatum was to expire at 2 p. m.

$4,000 Pupils Idle.

A temporary injunction against closing the schools to 34,000 pupils and 1,300 teachers was granted by Judge Hodapp last week. He termed it "a disgrace to have our schools closed," but his order was ignored by the board.

"I'll give you until tomorrow afternoon to do your duty," Judge Hodapp told the board. The money to operate the schools will be forthcoming tomorrow."

The Dayton schools have a $61,000 deficit and no immediate prospect of obtaining money.

"Don't be quitters," the judge admonished the board.

But when an 11-member committee of business and professional people, the clergy and parents met with the board last night, the five board members stuck to their decision to keep the schools closed and little was accomplished.

The closed meeting lasted four and one-half hours.

Board members summoned before Judge Hodapp today are F. L. Shively, H. O. Levy, Otterbein Creager, Paul J. Wortman and Mrs. Charlotte B. Whitmore. Superintendent of Schools Emerson H. Landis and Corrine L. Borghardt, clerk-treasurer of the board, also were cited.

Ault, Who Stood By Davey, Given Better Position

While ten highway department division engineers who refused to remain loyal to Governor Martin L. Davey at the expense of the Democratic party, stood on shaky grounds today, so far as their jobs were concerned, one of the two engineers who elected to remain with the governor in the Davey-Bricker-Sawyer fight, had been "decorated" by the governor with a promotion to chief engineer of the maintenance division.

I. R. Ault, Ashland, engineer of Division No. 3, of which Richland county is a part, and who is under indictment for soliciting funds from civil service employes for the Davey primary campaign, assumed his new duties today, succeeding B. H. Frasch of Newark, who resigned last week. Ault's trial on charges of illegally soliciting employes has been set for Nov. 15 at Mt. Vernon.

The announcement of his appointment was made yesterday when Davey summoned the engineers to the executive mansion for a meeting. The ten "rebels" fully expected to be "purged" of their jobs immediately, but instead the governor served luncheon and then rewarded Ault with a new job.

Various sources were authority today for the information that the governor would not play into Sawyer's hands by immediately dismissing the ten engineers, but might chop them off the state payroll the day after election. It was also learned that all ten of the engineers stand ready to resign the minute one of them is fired for "telling."

Ault, with Arch Ranney, head of division No. 4, were the only two of the state's 12 division engineers who "refused to tell" of Governor Davey's confidential order to 12 highway heads to support John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for governor, at a meeting at the executive mansion on Oct. 1.

Matron's Death a Mystery

Death of Mrs. Marion Nichold, 30, daughter of an eastern college professor, above, who was found dying on an Evanston, Ill., street dressed in pajamas, mystifies authorities. Mrs. Nichols, according to her husband, Richard, 31, a research engineer, had started for a walk, against his protests, to quiet her nerves. Theory that she had been hit by an automobile was weighed but several facts, including the one that her clothes were unmarred, led to the belief the young matron might have been murdered.

SALES VOLUME REFLECTS GAIN IN INDUSTRY

Bank Clearings in October Show Big Increase for First Time in Year.

BUSINESS BAROMETER

Employment Up 20 Per Cent, New Car Sales Double Previous Month.

Reflecting a 20 per cent gain in industrial employment in Mansfield during the past month, city bank clearings and new automobile sales showed a substantial increase in October for the first time in nearly a year, figures revealed today.

Bank clearings were up $676,209 over the September figures and reached the highest mark since late last winter. Clearings for October amounted to $6,716,661 as against $8,575,249 last October, one of the best months in the city's business history.

Clearings so far this year total $61,359,661 as compared with $87,126,808 to Nov. 1 last year.

Plants Share In Gains.

With most of the city's industrial plants sharing the gain, private employment went up about 20 per cent in October, a Chamber of Commerce survey showed.

County relief lists also reflected the increased employment, with the waiting list for work relief jobs shrinking more than 50 during the month. Slightly more than 1,100 persons are employed on WPA jobs in the city and county.

New Models Aid Car Sales.

While the introduction of new models contributed to the increase in automobile sales, better industrial conditions are believed to have figured in the upswing in the county's new car market, which showed 85 new automobiles sold in October, more than double the 40 handled in the preceding month.

Only six new trucks were sold in the county, however, as compared with 10 in September.

Sales tax receipts, another barometer of the retail sales in the city and county, also showed an increase over collections for September.

Receipts were available only for the first half of October, but they totaled approximately $17,000 as compared with less than $14,000 for a similar period in September.

20,000 Join In Marking Halloween

Downtown Area Flooded By 'Sea of Kids' for Parade.

A "sea of kids" literally overran Mansfield's downtown district last night for the first public Halloween celebration in several years, while adults swelled the crowd to an estimated 20,000 along the line of march.

It was one of the largest Halloween parades ever staged here and brought thousands of youngsters to the business district—to the relief of the residential sections.

Although the parade was disbanded long before 9 p. m., strange figures, goblins and witches, and characters out of story books, continued to roam the streets until midnight.

L. B. Hagerman, general chairman of the Gasoline Retailers association committee, which sponsored the celebration, said today that because of the response to their first effort, the association undoubtedly would arrange the celebration each year, carrying on the Halloween tradition in Mansfield which was started soon after the turn of the century by the late Fred Hunt.

Prizes were awarded in eight classifications last night at the judges' stand which was erected on the south side of Central park.

Prizes of $5 each for the best dressed man and woman were awarded to Lester Young, 131 South Adams street, who wore a Cossack's uniform in black, with white satin blouse, and to Miss Mary Louise Seible, 807 Bowman [illegible] and Wray Beverly, [illegible] Spanish senorita. Honorable mention in this class was given to Miss Betty Conaway, North Franklin street, and little Dixie Lee Caldwell, four-year-old entrant from Crestline who was dressed as a Red Cross nurse.

Five dollars each for the funniest man and woman was awarded to W. G. McCready, 206 Westwood avenue, and Mrs. Eugene Florey, 1100 Lexington avenue. He was dressed as Buster Brown and she as a "low comedy" character.

A prize of $15 for the most beautiful float was won by the Stuhldreher Floral company, while a second prize of $5 went to the Shriver's laundry. A car owned by Michael Augustine won the prize for the best decorated auto, $10 going to the driver; $10 was awarded a Standard Oil truck driver for the best decorated tank truck.

STATE TO PAY ENTIRE BILL IF U. S. FAILS

Fund Transfer Will Provide Both State, Federal Shares, Governor Says.

$1,000,000 REQUIRED

Executive Confers With U. S. Representative; Drafts Reply to Criticism.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Gov. Martin L. Davey declared today that if the federal Social Security board did not release Ohio's old age pension grants within a week, he had ordered the state director of finance to be ready to pay the October pensions in full with state funds.

The governor said he had instructed the director of finance, M. Ray Allison, to borrow the required funds from the state's general revenue fund if it became necessary.

$23 Checks Guaranteed.

Without the additional state funds or federal grants, the pension checks, already overdue, would amount to about $11.50. Borrowing of state funds would make possible payments of about $23 per pensioner.

Allison said it would be necessary to borrow approximately $1,000,000 from the general revenue fund to pay pensions in full, without federal aid. The cash balance of the fund yesterday was $1,405,000.

The old age pension fund contains $1,720,000 in state revenue.

The governor's statement was issued after a conference with Robert C. Goodwin, [illegible] state division of aid for the aged.

"We canvassed the situation thoroughly and found relatively little in the division of aid for the aged that could be criticized by the Social Security board," Davey said in his statement.

Proceeds With Answer.

"The chief of the Ohio division will proceed to make a full answer to the 12 requirements of the Social Security board. This work will be expedited as rapidly as possible, but it is our desire that the answers be complete as to details and accurate as to fact and dates.

"These answers will be so convincing that they will amaze the people of Ohio and confound the upstarts who have tried to place the blame on the Ohio division and those who have tried to make personal political capital out of the situation.

"Most of the requirements are based upon things that were already done many months ago and were initiated many months ago. The business program of the Ohio division of aid for aged are actually in splendid condition. There

Treaties Nothing To Hitler, Writer Finds

Knickerbocker Points to Three Major Acts of Aggression, Says Germany's Prepared In Military Way For Other Successes.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of a series of articles by H. R. Knickerbocker, foreign correspondent of International News Service, who sums up his opinion of what lies ahead in Europe and outlines the reaction that has set in following the Munich agreement.)

NEW YORK—Germany has committed three major acts of aggression in violation of treaty obligations within the last two years, and in each case she acted with odds against her so overwhelming that in case of war she would certainly have been defeated. She now has the odds with her for the first time. Fear of war, the last and only check to her ambition, has now been removed.

After each former aggression Germany solemnly swore she was now satisfied, had no more territorial claims, and would never do it again. Once more Hitler has publicly declared he has no more territorial claims in Europe. But now Germany could win a war. Why?

His Successes Grow.

Primarily because Hitler has cowed Europe. Success grows upon success, and Hitler's successes now come more and more rapidly. When he came to power in 1933 he told the reichstag "the German people have no thought of invading any country." In 1934 he repeated: "After the Saar question has been settled, the German government is ready to accept not only the letter but also the spirit of the Locarno pact."

The Saar question was settled to Hitler's satisfaction and in CIO Says Reinstated Strikers Driven From Republic.

CLEVELAND— (AP)— A CIO official said some Republic Steel corporation employes ejected today from a Republic plant 46 strikers who were called back to work under terms of a recent national labor relations board order.

B. J. Damich, field director of the steel workers organizing committee, asserted the men were driven from Republic's Upson Nut division plant before they had an opportunity to change their working clothes.

Damich said the uprising was among employes who did not participate in the 1937 steel strike, and declared it was inspired by "hired gangsters."

The company previously said it was rehiring strikers as business warranted.

LIGHTS STOLEN

Police Investigating Robbery at Fairground.

Police today were investigating the disappearance of eight flood lights valued at $400 from the Richland county fairground.

The loss was reported to police yesterday by W. H. Shryock, 51 Arthur avenue, caretaker of the ground who returned from a two weeks vacation Sunday and found the equipment missing.

Shryock said the lighting equipment which was erected several years ago by the now defunct Mansfield Driving club, had been carefully dismantled and carried away in his absence.

The equipment, which consisted of huge weatherproof lights was taken from the top of the grandstand, art hall and school building, he said.

One Week to Go, All Candidates Speed Up

Sawyer Makes Bid for Cuyahoga Vote, Goes On to Toledo; Labor Executive Says Bricker Has Made a Deal With Girdler.

Meeting at extreme ends of the state, Republicans and Democrats launched big campaign rallies today, the Democrats in Toledo and the Republicans in Cincinnati.

Charles Sawyer and Robert J. Bulkley, Democratic candidates for governor and United States senator, respectively, were in the northern city, while John W. Bricker and Robert A. Taft, Republican candidates for the same offices, will speak in the Ohio river city tonight.

Driving hard for victory in the election a week from today, all candidates spent a busy day Monday, their oratory being supplemented by that of a U. S. official and a spokesman for the CIO, both of whom approved the Democratic candidates.

At Columbus, John Owens, Ohio chairman of the CIO, asserted in a radio address that by voting for the Democratic ticket Ohioans will be "upholding the hand of our president."

At Cleveland, U. S. Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson told a large audience that he was "confident Sawyer and Bulkley would be elected."

Sawyer continued his whirlwind campaign to win the support of northern Ohio, after telling Cuyahoga voters, "You look awfully good to me." Ray T. Miller, former mayor and head of the so-called insurgent group of the Democratic party in Cuyahoga county, introduced Sawyer last night at a number of mass meetings.

Sawyer, referring to a statement which he claims Bricker made at Springfield, but which the latter denies, to the effect that "Sawyer can have Cuyahoga county," said he would thankfully receive all the votes in Cuyahoga that he can get, "including the Republican votes Bricker doesn't get."

Bricker said that both John L. Lewis and Owens take credit for Sawyer's nomination and that "not one word of repudiation or independence has come from Sawyer's lips." In referring to Sawyer's charge of an alliance between Bricker and Davey, he said Sawyer "apparently has no regard for the truth."

THE LOCAL SCENE

PROMISING to "out-do 'Pension Bill' Ashbrook," his Democratic opponent, Walter B. Woodward, Republican candidate for congress in the 17th district, last night told 450 persons at a Townsend rally at Republican headquarters that he would favor "all the pensions Ashbrook has voted for and give needy persons over 60 a substantial annuity besides."

Speaking from the same platform, L. W. Jeffery of Chicago, national vice president of the Townsend organization urged the election of Woodward as "a hope for permanent business recovery."

Their voices often drowned out by Halloween celebrants outside the hall, Woodward and Jeffery centered their attack on the New Deal's Social Security program, describing it as "a fraud and a blind for the administration to obtain more money to spend."

Jeffery charged that "the administration didn't have the courage to admit it didn't have the funds to go on with its spending, so it passed the Social Security

WITH election one week from today, Richland county Democrats headed down the home stretch of the fall campaign today with a series of rallies to be held throughout the county, three of which are scheduled for tonight.

Headlining the local bill today will be a covered-dish dinner and bridge party staged by the Dolly Madison club at Democratic headquarters on West Fourth street, while township rallies are scheduled at both Lucas and Butler.

The township drive extends to Plymouth tomorrow. Thursday, First and Fourth ward meetings are scheduled in Mansfield with Congressman William A. Ashbrook climaxing the Democratic campaign in Shelby by speaking at Shelby high school.

Before the week-end lull, William Pickrel, former lieutenant governor of the state, and Atty. A. S. Beach will be the principal speakers at a district rally Friday night at the party's headquarters on West Fourth street.

Upwards to 150 Democratic women are expected to attend the Chamberlain Offers Anglo-Italian Pact for Debate.

LONDON—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the house of commons today that he intended to bring the Anglo-Italian accord of April 16 into force "as soon as possible."

He said he would offer a motion for debate tomorrow to the effect that "this house welcomes the intention of His Majesty's government to bring the Anglo-Italian agreement into force."

The prime minister spoke to the house as it assembled for a four-day session expected to be devoted largely to debate on the government's rearmament, civilian defense and foreign policies.

World Will 'End' Again Before U.S. Radio Commission

WASHINGTON —(UNS)—Civilization is going to be "destroyed" again—so the seven-man Federal Communications commission can pass judgment.

Some of the commissioners, including Frank R. McNinch, didn't hear the Columbia Broadcasting system's coast-to-coast radio dramatization of H. G. Wells' "The War of the Worlds," Sunday night, which apparently caused more fear and excitement among persons throughout the land who did not know it was a play, than any other national broadcast.

In response to the commission's request, the CBS today delivered to McNinch shiny wax discs embodying an electrical transcription of the startlingly realistic broadcast. The dramatization created a furore among radio listeners who did not hear, or wait to hear, that the realistic news bulletins describing the destruction being wrought in New Jersey and in New York by animal-like creatures which landed here from the planet Mars, were all a part of the radio play.

McNinch reserved judgment until the full commission hears the transcription of the hour-long fantasy and makes a thorough study.

Dead Man's Eyes Packed In Ice, Flown To Frisco With Hope of Aiding Blind

Optics of Slayer, Killed by Firing Squad, Given Over to Science.

SAN FRANCISCO—The blind clamored today for a dead man's eyes.

The eyes came from the body of John W. Deering, murderer executed yesterday by a Salt Lake City firing squad, who gave his body to science in a gesture of atonement for his misspent life.

They arrived here by air express, frozen, and were claimed by an anonymous specialist who restored sight in several "hopeless" cases. As in previous operations, the doctor planned to use Deering's corneas to replace destroyed tissue in the sightless.

Who would be chosen for the cornea transplanting was kept a secret. Several afflicted persons were reported to have pleaded eloquently for a chance to see again. San Francisco specialists previously have said that many successful operations could be performed if corneas were available. The cornea is the "window" or covering of the eye and is most frequently destroyed by disease or accident.

When Deering's body was carried out of the Utah state prison yard, after four rifle bullets of the executioners tore through his chest, there were no local requests for his eyes. They were removed at the Utah medical school, to which Deering consigned his body, and were put aboard an airliner for San Francisco last night.

Deering's other contribution to medical science was in permitting the first radio-cardiograph recording of an execution. Dr. Stephen H. Besley, prison physician, found that the one bullet which struck the right side of Deering's heart brought death in 15.6 seconds. The man's pulse, showing in the recording by electrical impulses transferred to a film, registered 180 for several moments before, during and after he was shot. Normal pulse is around 72, Dr. Besley said.

NEXT WINTER'S weather may not be rainy, but the old adage anent saving for a rainy day applies to you right now! For it is time to put up those conserves and table delicacies in jars and cans, to save for next winter's eating. You will beam with pride to see your pantry shelves, like Mary's garden, lined all in a row with toothsome extras that add a luxury touch to even the simplest meal.

Amber marmalade requires one large, fresh grapefruit, one orange, one lemon, water and sugar. It is a delicious marmalade, ideal for breakfast. Select large, firm, thin-skinned grapefruit and orange; wash and wipe dry. Cut in paper-thin slices, using a very sharp knife. Measure the fruit; add three times the bulk of water. Let stand over night. Next morning, boil until peel is tender and again let stand over night. Measure fruit and add an equal amount of sugar. Cook to jelly stage. Pour in clean jelly glasses and seal.

Cranberry Chutney.

Cranberry chutney is the sort of de luxe touch that lifts a meal out of the ordinary class. Ingredients include one pound of cranberries, one-half cup water, three-quarters cup each of seedless raisins and pitted dates, one-half cup sugar, scant one-half cup vinegar, one-quarter teaspoon each ginger and cinnamon, one-eighth teaspoon each cloves, allspice and salt. Clean cranberries; add water. Mash with potato masher during cooking. Cook until soft. Rub through fine sieve. Grind raisins and dates. Combine cranberry puree with all ingredients; cook until thick (about 10 minutes). Pour in hot, sterilized jelly glasses and cover with paraffin. This recipe makes four eight-ounce glasses.

Notes From a Model's Diary

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

THINGS are a little quieter in the shop, thank goodness! As a result, I will be able to take a little trip with Consuelo.

The shock of the fire at the ater, and having to postpone the opening of the show until a good theater could be secured for it, have been too much for the poor girl. So she is going to take a little vacation, a trip to Bermuda by air. It really will be just a long week-end, since we leave on Friday morning and return on Tuesday. You can bet that I'm looking forward to it, too, for I have been terribly busy in the store.

Woolen Afternoon Dress.

This certainly is some season. We have had so many extra orders, too, mostly wedding trousseaux. Then we made ever so many things for the Velvet Ball. I'm thankful that this year we didn't do anything for the fashion show. Madame decided that we were too busy with just doing our own shop.

Beautiful Velvets.

We made some beautiful things in black and jewel toned velvets. One of our loveliest ensembles was in white velvet, the gown beautifully draped, the matching cape with collar and bands of silver fox. A wine-red velvet ensemble, having sable-eyed baum marten, was another big success But I would settle for one of those lovely black velvets that are trimmed with ermine or starched white lace. The chance to wear velvet or lame is one of the things that reconciles me to the winter.

My customers have ordered some beautiful clothes, but most of them have eschewed all the trick styles, as most smart women do. Our clothes cost a lot, it is true, but they are ageless and timeless. One of my customers brought in a dress to be done over. It was three years old, but so far as style went, it might have been bought yesterday. It was a crepe roma dinner dress, done on long, slim lines with beautiful drapery.

Prefer Black or White.

Many fashion-wise women, especially those who go out a great deal, prefer simple black or white evening things; basic dresses, really, and they wear them with different accessories so that they always look beautifully dressed.

Here's one of our new afternoon dresses, just off the boat. It is of burgundy woolen and black satin, with black and burgundy pompoms at the neck. The satin is encrusted in vertical bands from above the draped belt to the hem. The bands are straight but the skirt is flared.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, November 2.

A RATHER negative day, as far as business or occupation is concerned, is indicated by the astral operations. Probable anxieties, delays, difficulties or a bereavement seem to afflict the personal life. There are omens of difficulties, vexations or even financial loss or litigation, which is connected in some manner with writings, documents or contracts. Be cautious with these. Bad judgment and distorted views may menace, precipitating adverse situations

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year in which a personal affliction or misfortune may upset business calculations or cause bungling or confusion in every day affairs. There is danger of anxiety, vexation, delays and difficulties, even a deep sorrow, and at the same time papers, writings, contracts or documents have power to cause loss or litigation. Unsound judgment or exaggerated views, so be careful and conservative, and don't jump at conclusions.

A child born on this day may have a mild, friendly and sympathetic nature, but it may be prone to jump at conclusions, lack clear judgment and so invite irritating and disagreeable contacts.

My Neighbor Says:

As a rule, tulips cannot be expected to bloom indoors until after the first of the year. There is one exception, however. The little Duc Von Thol tulip can readily be made to bloom in December in an ordinary living room. This particular tulip has a large flower, but a very short stem. The best way to get satisfactory blooms is to set the potted bulbs in a cool cellar, covering them with a box, where they can be kept dark until a strong growth of roots has been developed. Then they may be brought into a warm, sunny room where they will make very rapid growth. Although Duc Von Thol tulips are usually grown in pots of earth as described, they can be forced readily in bowls containing pebbles and water in the same way as paper white narcissi, but they need to be kept in the dark for a longer time.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"What time do they have to leave?" she asked.

"Hank's appointment is at eleven," I answered. "They should leave the hotel at half after ten at the latest. But they have left a call for nine o'clock so that they will have time for breakfast with Mary and a little visit with her."

"What time have you planned breakfast?" she asked next.

"We'll have breakfast at a quarter of ten, served in the living room, of course."

"Then," she said firmly, "if you'll just give me the breakfast menu you've planned, I can see no reason why you have to rise until just long enough before breakfast for you to get into a negligee unless, of course, you are going with the boys."

She's Not Going.

"No, I'm not going with them," I said, and caught myself in time to avoid adding the comment that my husband would accompany the boys to the office of the specialist.

"And I'm going to accept your offer gratefully," I said, conscious for the first time of a great weariness, a "let-down" from the excitement of the evening. "I'll just jot down the menu, and ask you to provide for an extra guest, who may or may not be here."

"I'll attend to everything. Do you want anything to help you sleep?"

"No, indeed, thank you," I told her, and went to my room on the word.

I did not awaken until Miss Whitlock's gentle, firm hand on my wrist aroused me.

"Ten minutes until breakfast," she said, "and everybody's in the living room, including your husband."

Madge Is Thrilled.

"Oh! I'm glad," I said, trying to keep my voice as carefully casual as was hers. "He was not sure that he could make it. The boys will be delighted that he can go with them."

I was at the bathroom door by the time I had finished, adjusting my bath cap as I went. Frenziedly rushing through my shower and dressing, I entered the living room at exactly a quarter of ten.

Dicky, the boys and Mary rose at my entrance, and Dicky, crossing the room to give me a greeting kiss, whispered under cover of the caress:

"Well! You see I made it, after all."

Dicky Worried.

The words and the tone were so unlike Dicky that I had hard work to stifle my astonishment and whisper back enthusiastically, "I'm so glad." And more than once during the breakfast I studied his face furtively.

But he gave me no hint of what was worrying him, devoting the most of his attention to his two nephews who patently needed all the cheering they could get, so nervous were they over the impending visit to the specialist.

Bill turned back from the elevator for a last whispered word with me before he, with Hank and Dicky, started on the trip across the city.

"Aunt Madge," he appealed, "you don't think he'll make Hank stay home from school or send him somewhere else, do you?"

I had not before realized the depth of the fear that was in Bill's heart, a fear which I knew Hank himself did not share, for he did not know the real reason for this trip of his to the physician. The knowledge made me beckon to Dicky, unseen by Bill, just as the elevator stopped at our floor.

"Go on down to the lobby, boys, and wait for me," he directed. "I forgot something. I'll be with you in a minute."

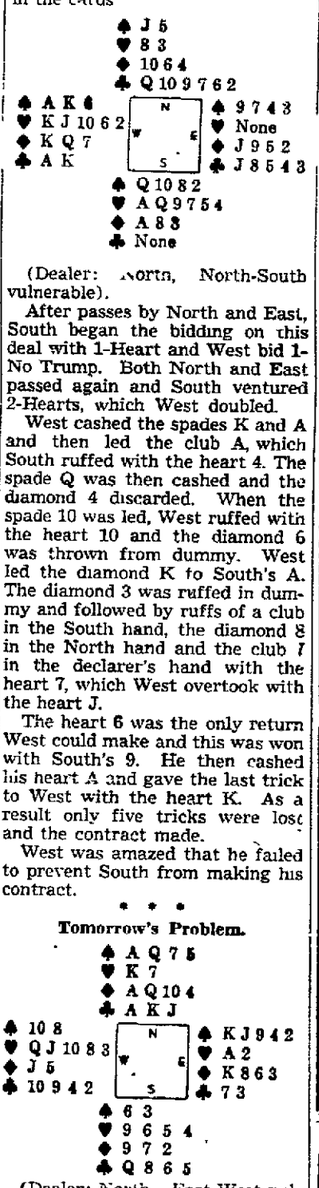
"The Authority on Authorities"

MANNA FROM HEAVEN

GETTING DOUBLED INTO a game when you have a weak hand is just like receiving a windfall Careful use of your meagre resources can give you one of the best thrills the game affords—more points than were dealt to you in the cards



(Dealer: North, North-South vulnerable).

After passes by North and East, South began the bidding on this deal with 1-Heart and West bid 1-No Trump. Both North and East passed again and South ventured 2-Hearts, which West doubled.

West cashed the spades K and A and then led the club A, which South ruffed with the heart 4. The spade Q was then cashed and the diamond 4 discarded. When the spade 10 was led, West ruffed with the heart 10 and the diamond 6 was thrown from dummy. West led the diamond K to South's A. The diamond 3 was ruffed in dummy and followed by ruffs of a club in the South hand, the diamond 8 in the North hand and the club 7 in the declarer's hand with the heart 7, which West overtook with the heart J.

The heart 6 was the only return West could make and this was won with South's 9. He then cashed his heart A and gave the last trick to West with the heart K. As a result only five tricks were lost and the contract made.

West was amazed that he failed to prevent South from making his contract.

Miss Fairfax Gives Advice On Matrimony

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

For the past two years I've been going "steady" with a young man. My family aren't very wild about him and are always telling me he'll never make a success of anything, because he's so terribly jealous all the time. Do you think when a man is jealous of a girl it is because he does not trust her? He says he will never give me up, and keeps on coming back, no matter how mean I treat him.

He is in the United States service, has high ideals, and when he comes to call—dressed well, never in uniform—he says he respects me too much to wear his uniform when calling. I think the main reason my family doesn't care for him is that he cannot spend much money on me. But what could you expect on the small salary these boys get? I'm 19 years old; he's a little older.

SALLY.

To my mind, jealousy is a pretty bad possession with which to start married life, my dear. It's more apt to wax than to wane. And he strikes me as a pretty poor type of soldier, not to be proud of his uniform. If he feels that way, why did he enlist at all?

* * *

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been going with a certain girl for about a year and a half, and we hope to get married some day. She's 23 and I'm 30. I was out of work for a long time, and used part of my savings for living expenses, hence I haven't enough money to marry on. I have a new job now, but thought it best to wait a year before getting married.

However, my fiancee thought differently; she suggested we marry right away. She has a good secretarial position and with my salary check she thinks we ought to be able to make a go of it. What do you think? H. H.

If your fiancee won't lose her job when she marries, I think it would be a good idea to marry now. You have a job, so why hesitate? Here's my best wishes to you both.

Always keep perfume in a dark place. Daylight will affect every odor differently, according to its formula. In extreme cases perfume turns bright red as soon as it has been exposed to the sun.

In cleaning enamel and porcelain bathroom articles, be careful not to use too strong a solution of cleansing material. One cause of difficulty in removing water stains from some tubs may be found in the fact that the finish has been partially removed by too severe cleaning.

Look over dahlia bulbs stored away for winter. If they seem dry or shriveled sprinkle them with water.

Thin slices of lemons, oranges, limes or grapefruit, sprinkled with sugar and broiled 10 minutes, make effective and tasty garnishes for roasts or fowls. Red or green jelly, dotted on top of the slices, give added color and flavor.

Don't twist, bend or tie the so-called cord attached to your electric iron. It is not a cord, but two bundles of wires.

FIND TREATIES MEAN NOTHING TO NAZI LEADER

Knickerbocker Points to Three Major Acts of Aggression by Chancellor.

March, 1936, violating Locarno, Germany marched into the Rhineland at a moment when the German general staff advised Hitler they would have to retreat immediately if France marched.

"Germany neither intends nor wishes to interfere in the internal affairs of Austria, to annex Austria, or to conclude an Anschluss," Hitler told the reichstag in May, 1935. In March, 1936, he repeated "we have no territorial demands to make in Europe," and as late as February, 1938, he reaffirmed his recognition of Austrian sovereignty expressed in the Austro-German agreement of July, 1926.

Goes Into Austria.

Thereupon in violation of all these written and spoken pledges, Germany marched into Austria in March, 1938, again at a moment when the general staff advised Hitler they would lose if war began.

When he invaded Austria, Hitler reaffirmed through Goering, to the Czech and British governments the German-Czechoslovak arbitration treaty of Oct. 16, 1926, and Chamberlain so informed the house of commons. Seven months later the Germans marched into Czechoslovakia and Hitler declared a brand new proclamation of policy: "It is the last territorial claim which I have to make in Europe."

Just before he marched into Czechoslovakia the German general staff once more informed Hitler as clearly as they dared that if war came they would probably lose. But from the moment the first German army boot struck Czech soil the entire European set-up changed so violently that no German staff officer is ever likely to feel it necessary to advise Hitler to be cautious again.

That in itself is tremendously important. He has won a reputation for infallibility not only among the awed and impotent powers of Europe, but among his own general staff.

His word will now more than ever be the supreme law of the army. But even if a few of his realistic Prussian generals should have escaped the mystic quality of Hitler's effect upon the German mind, the facts of what he has done to Europe must persuade them that Hitler has now upset the balance of power in his favor.

Russia No Threat.

First, Russia is now out as a threat to Germany. Her pact with Czechoslovakia is annulled. Her pact with France is a dead letter. Flouted by Britain and France, ignored during the crisis, she will probably now withdraw into utter isolation, attempt no more to cooperate with the democracies, but bitterly, sullenly, resolutely build her own Maginot line to check if she can the advancing German war machine. This was Hitler's primary aim. It is his greatest victory.

Second, on the side of Germany will now be Czechoslovakia who hates the friends who betrayed her much more than the avowed enemy. Far better speak German in Prague today than French or English.

This Slav nation obeys with vengeful alacrity every hint from her new "protector," Hitler.

Italy too, barring unforeseeable events, will be on the side of Germany now, because for the first time it appears that Germany may win, and in the hands of Germany's enemies are all the territories Mussolini would like to have for his new Roman empire: Egypt, Tunis, Algiers, Morocco.

In Poland the German victory plus the fact of Poland's own territorial gains from Czechoslovakia have so strengthened the pro-German party that until Hitler actually undertakes to retrieve Danzig, the corridor and upper Seliesia, he may count upon Polish support.

In Hungary Hitler intends to make the present government of Imredy yield or retire. In Rumania Hitler will either bring Carol to his side or try by revolution to bring the iron guard leader Codreanu from the penitentiary to the premiership.

Ties Strengthened.

Greece and Bulgaria's ties to Germany are now firmer than ever, and in Jugoslavia the news of Munich gave the pro-German Stoyadinovich triumphant mastery over his pro-British and French opposition.

Even Turkey, hitherto firm friend of the British, and vitally important for the British position in the near east, began after Munich seriously to negotiate with Germany. All the Baltic states, but particularly Lithuania, which had depended on Britain and Russia for protection against Germany and Poland, have been shaken to their foundations by Munich.

In Spain even the most valiant friends of the loyalists have abandoned hope. In Palestine the Arabs have declared open war on the British who, although compelled to defend themselves, are nevertheless apparently preparing to default on the Balfour declaration.

In Africa the whole of the continent is atremble at the threatened coming of the Germans. In China the Munich settlement brought immediately the Japanese landing in the south, the capture of Canton, the impending collapse of Chiang Kai Shek, and the threatened end of British influence in the far east.

In South America, the Germans have been so reinforced in prestige by Munich that their threat to the Monroe Doctrine has now become cause for serious concern.

These were the moral effects of Munich, a world-wide decision that Hitler is master of Europe. What were his immediate material and especially military gains of his bloodless conquest of Czechoslovakia?

Knickerbocker's third article will appear tomorrow.

CONGRESS

"I have a platform. I call it the people's platform and it has six major points but the others in this platform are mere bubbles to be pricked unless we have the Townsend plan"—extracts from Mr. Woodward's speech at Coshocton, September 22.

The only issue in this Congressional Campaign then appears to be whether you are in favor of a 2% Transaction Tax, and $200 per month for every person who is 60 years old. If you are willing to foot the bill and favor this Utopian dream, Woodward is your man. If you favor sane legislation, reasonable old age pensions and approve a long record of faithful service, Bill Ashbrook should be your man.

Judicial Candidate

FROM MINING TO SUPREME COURT

That's Colorful Career of William L. Hart, Seeking Judicial Post Again.

Judge William L. Hart, who is a candidate for justice of the supreme court of Ohio, might have been a character in a Horatio Alger success story, for he has risen from coal miner to one of the leading attorneys of the state, and at one time headed the Ohio State Bar association.

Born and raised on a farm in the Ohio river hills country of Columbiana county, he worked in stone quarries, coal mines and lumber camps Ambitious and determined to raise himself above his early background, he finished his public school and then taught in a one-room school to earn money for his college education.

He received his A. B. degree at Mt. Union college, Alliance, and then began his legal education at the University of Michigan, taking his law degree in 1897. He paid for his law schooling by working on a newspaper.

His career in law has been a noteworthy one. He is a life member of the American Law Institute, a lecturer on international law at Mount Union college, and for 16 years has authorized the annual review of Ohio law cases. He was president of the Ohio Bar association in 1923-24

He was first elected to the state supreme court in 1934 for the short term.

His home is in Alliance and he has two sons, both attorneys.

Senior High Will Pick 2 to Reign Over Homecoming

A master and mistress of ceremonies to reign over homecoming activities Friday at Senior high school will be chosen at a general student election tomorrow morning.

The two students will be chosen from a group of six boys and six girls who will be nominated from the 12-A and 12-B classes by the sophomore and junior members of the Student Representative council.

The master and mistress of ceremonies will preside over the annual homecoming program Friday afternoon and evening.

The celebration begins at 1 p.m, with a program in the auditorium by each class at the school, followed in the evening with a costume dance in the gymnasium, and carnival sideshows and concessions. The evening program is set for 8 o'clock.

SPEED UP IN CLOSING WEEK

Sawyer in Cleveland, Toledo; Bricker Scored by Labor Head in Dem Talk.

Replying to Bricker's charge that Sawyer had agreed to appoint Owens state industrial relations director, Owens replied that no political appointments had been offered him and "all will be rejected."

Charges Girdler "Deal."

"It would be of great interest to the voters of Ohio if Bricker would reveal his latest deal, namely, an agreement with Tom Girdler (chairman of the board of Republic Steel Corp.) to appoint an expert in tear gas, espionage and thuggery, as the director of industrial relations," Owens added.

While Bulkley at Bellaire accused Taft of misrepresenting the former's attitude toward labor, Taft told a Cincinnati audience that Bulkley has forgotten his repeated promises to obtain action on flood control and stream pollution legislation.

He said that Bulkley could have prevented the president's veto of the Barkley-Vinson bill for stream purification, and that he had promised the Portsmouth Flood Defense committee to support a flood control amendment, but had failed to vote on it when the time came.

"Vast sums have been spent on Boulder dam, the TVA project, Grand Coulee dam and others," Taft said, "but practically no attention has been given to the problems of an area containing millions more people than are affected by any of the other projects."

program as a new source."

"The administration is spending the money that should be held in reserve for pensions and in its place is leaving IOU's which can be made good only by the taxpayers," Jeffery added.

Woodward called the plan "the Un-social In-security act" and added that "it provides nothing but poverty because it takes money out of circulation."

He repeated his allegiance to the Townsend plan, asserting that "I'd still be for it if all the rest of you changed your minds and opposed it."

He said he favored the Ludlow bill which would call for a vote of the people on the issue of going to war.

"If we make some of the millionaires pay the cost of wars we wouldn't have to send our boys across the sea to be slaughtered."

Jeffery declared he is "for the Townsend plan because I'm convinced it can balance the nation's budget and solve our economic ills by putting money back in circulation and stimulating industry."

Admitting that he was skeptical at first about raising enough money to put the plan in operation, he said it would work on "the same perpetual principle that takes water from the lakes and rivers and sends it back to the earth in rain."

He asserted that "we need a change at Washington, because a lot of the law-makers are in a rut and oppose everything that would provide sound economics."

"Elect Woodward to congress," he shouted, "and if you don't like him in two years, I'll come back and help you to get him out of Washington."

Archie May, Mansfield, Woodward's campaign manager, was chairman of the program. He introduced John Friday, Republican candidate for county commissioner, and Harry Maxwell, candidate for state representative.

The Townsend twins from Newark, relatives of Dr. Francis Townsend, founder of the Townsend plan, played several accordion numbers.

While county Republicans have no rallies set for tonight, they will renew their campaigning with a covered dish dinner at noon Wednesday at party headquarters where Mrs. Catherine Neff Cox, state central committeewoman, will be the principal speaker.

County candidates are scheduled for talks at the meeting which will be in charge of the Republican Women's club.

Rallies will be held at Butler and Lexington Thursday night and the final big meeting before election will be held Friday night at headquarters.

Speakers at that session will include Thomas J. Herbert, of Cleveland, Republican candidate for attorney general, and Mrs Kathryn E. Wetzel of Hamilton, who spoke at a rally here last week.

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Remedy. It's Better

Quick, Comforting Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

No matter what you might spend for medicine, you couldn't get quicker, better relief from coughs that start from colds than this simple home mixture gives. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough remedy and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time and children love its taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, you'll say it is truly wonderful. It has a remarkable action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a concentrated compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

QUIET ADVANCE LED BY STEELS; RAILS TILT UP

Expanding Mill Operations to Top Level in Year Spurs Metal Stocks.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Steels led the stock market on a quiet forward move today and favored issues advanced fractions to more than a point.

Buying was selective, for the most part, and numerous stocks were only slightly ahead near the second hour.

Rails tilted moderately upward, apparently having recovered from disappointment over the wage decision. Expanding mill operations to the best level in a year gave the steels a fillip. Rubbers were in demand, as were a number of specialties.

Best gainers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Southern Railway, N. Y. Central, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, North American, Zenith Radio and International Paper. Motors and utilities were a trifle ahead. Bonds and commodities were mildly improved.

Some comfort was found in the condition statement of federal reserve member banks in 101 cities for the week ended Oct. 26, showing an upturn of $7,000,00 in industrial, commercial and agricultural loans. At the same time, reflecting increasing stock speculative interest, brokers' loans mounted $63,000,000 during the week.

No More Dizzy Spells for Him

Says famous medicine Vendol relieved biliousness, bad breath, vile taste in mouth, due to constipation. Advises everyone try it.

MR. ALBERT HAINES

"Many a time I actually felt like I would fall from dizziness," said Mr. Albert Haines, who lives at 25½ Carl St., Tiffin, Ohio.

"Spots moved before my eyes, breath was bad and mouth had a vile taste. My stomach was out of order and I seemed to be always suffering from gas, heartburn and full, heavy feeling after meals. I blame all my troubles on constipation.

"Nothing did much good until I began taking Vendol. It helped move me easily and thoroughly and soon the dizzy spells, stomach distress and other troubles just passed off. My skin took on a fresh, clean color and now I look and feel so much better that I am anxious to tell others all about this wonderful medicine Vendol."

If you are suffering from indigestion, dizzy spells, headaches, tired, listless feeling associated with constipation, try Vendol, as so many other people have done and see if it doesn't give marvelous relief. Vendol also acts as a mild diuretic to the kidneys' relieving backache, pains in the arms and limbs. If you suffer like this and ask for Vendol, you will not be disappointed.

Come to Weinberger's Drug Store, 32 N. Main St., ask for the Vendol Man, let him explain all the ingredients in Vendol and how they will also help you. Don't put off getting well.

Strike Threat Fades, Rails Hope for Legislative Aid

'PRESSURE' TO END PAY SLASH FIGHT STARTED

Management of Leading Lines Meet Friday to Accept or Reject 'Verdict.'

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Possibilities of a nationwide railroad strike diminished today as it became apparent that rail executives would abandon their demands for a 15 per cent wage cut in return for administration support of broad rail aid legislation.

Management leaders rushed plans for settling finally the controversy with their 960,000 workers. Presidents of the 139 class 1 railroads were summoned to a special meeting in Chicago Friday to decide whether to abandon the pay cut fight.

It was indicated unofficially that they would do so in order that work may begin at once on a joint management-labor program for rehabilitation which President Roosevelt's administration will support in the next congress.

Deciding Factors.

These considerations were said to be pushing the rail executives toward a cancellation of the pay cut notice, effective Dec. 1:

1. The adverse report of Mr. Roosevelt's emergency fact-finding board which held the wage reduction proposal unjustified.

2. The threat of rail labor unions to stage a national strike if the cut is made effective.

3. Mr. Roosevelt's offer to support constructive rail legislative proposals in the next congress.

H. A. Enochs, chairman of the carriers' joint conference committee, which conducted the wage negotiations on behalf of all the railroads, indicated that the pay proposal would be shelved when he declared that "a railway strike so far, far away that there is no reason to get worried about it."

It was understood that Mr. Roosevelt's informal railroad committee of three management and three labor representatives will meet again as soon as the wage reduction notice is withdrawn. The committee's first attempt to draft a program struck a snag on the pay cut controversy.

Mountain Fissure Still Traps Dog Despite Blasting

CLARKSBURG, W. Va.—(U.P.)—A crew of begrimed mountaineers blasted away at Spelter mountain today, unswerving from their confidence that Sport, a "community dog," will be rescued from the narrow cavern that has held him for 13 days.

Sport, a brown and white beagle hound who has gone hunting with almost every resident of Spelter, eight miles from here, was trapped in a fissure on the mountain, presumably while chasing a fox or other quarry over the treacherous ridges and sink holes.

In 24 hours of blasting at the rocky mountain side, the crew had torn away approximately two tons. It was estimated that another four or five tons would have to be blown loose before Sport's natural prison could be reached.

Sport, the pet of 19-year-old Howard Walls, was believed to be alive. Food has been shoved to him. Some thought they heard his faint barks yesterday but last night nothing was heard. They thought he was sleeping.

'TIP' FIZZLES

No Arrests Seen In Latest Torso Murder 'Clue.'

CLEVELAND — (INS) — No arrests will be made on the basis of an unemployed Indianapolis steel worker's alleged "tip" as to the identity of this city's mad torso slayer, Detective Sergeant James T. Hogan said today.

Hogan returned from Indianapolis last night after questioning the steel worker, who is reported to have "identified" the murderer, who has dissected at least 12 bodies, as a physician.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter who inspected the huge Norris Dam which is a part of the Tennessee Valley Authority, on his recent vacation through the south, was surprised to find that Mansfield products were used so extensively by the government. Not only were Ohio Brass insulators in evidence on the construction job, but the mayor said they also were used on numerous overhead power lines throughout Florida. A former employe of the Ohio Brass, Hunter had no trouble in spotting the Mansfield products.

While Scout Executive Floyd Dent of the Johnny Appleseed area, and C. I. Kimmel, area commissioner, are too modest to lay claims to being in the Frank Buck class, they do bring 'em back. They have just returned from a two-week hunting trip in the wilds of Quebec with two deer and the skin of a large bear. They bagged the bear but didn't want to bring the carcas back as Mansfielders have not been trained to appreciate bear meat. The venison will be served at the annual dinner for Boy Scout officials soon.

Sportsmen who know their birds might be able to help William Amend, Richland county farmer, solve a mystery. Amend captured a bird while husking corn the other afternoon that is similar to a gannet, a sea bird, but he contends it is not a gannet nor a pheasant with an abnormal beak. Equipped with large, strong wings the mysterious bird made no attempt to fly when captured but fought back.

FRISCO CLERKS BACK ON JOBS

End 55-Day Strike Against 35 Department Stores by Signing New Pact.

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO—American Federation of Labor retail clerks today abandoned their 55-day strike against 35 leading department stores and returned to work. The decision came on a vote, 1068 to 1014, to sign an agreement with the San Francisco retailers' council.

Larry Vail, union secretary, said the agreement did not provide for the union shop but provided for "continuation or improvement of all contract provisions in last year's agreement."

Terms of the settlement provided for all strikers to register for work with the stores and return to their former posts "as rapidly as possible." They also embodied a seniority clause, an adjustment board to discuss differences and allowed an arbiter to make final decisions.

Other provisions, Vail said, included a $2 raise in basic wages to $20 weekly, increased vacation with pay, and a clause designating the union as collective bargaining agent for all employes covered under the contract. Persons employed after Sept. 7 as extra help or to replace strikers must be dismissed.

The strikers' decision came after a six-hour closed session ending early today.

Strike settlement followed mediation efforts of a 10-man business-labor peace committee

JITTERBUGS! HERE'S CHANCE TO MAKE THOSE DANCING FEET PAY

Gather 'round, all you jitterbugs who would rather do the Lambeth Walk than eat, and listen to a way to make money with those dancing feet.

Hottest news for the cookie-pushers is that the Ohio theater and The News-Journal will sponsor a series of jitterbug jamborees on the Ohio theater stage every Saturday night for seven weeks, with a total of $185 in cash to be awarded the boys and girls who give the best demonstration of the "jitterbug dances." The first jamboree will be staged Nov. 12.

The contests will be open to all amateurs who register before the contest nights, and there's no limit as to the number or kind of dances. Contestants can do the rumba, the collegiate shag, the Lindy hop, the tango, the Lambeth Walk, the big apple, or even a bit of truckin.

There will be an orchestra and the audience will act as the judge.

All those boys and girls who dance for fun can now dance for cash as well. Every Saturday night for the first six weeks there will be three cash prizes awarded, $10 to the first couple or group; $7.50 to the second, and $5 for third prize.

The first two winners will be eligible for the final contest when the first three winners will be awarded $25, $15 and $10 respectively. Those who win third prize may always qualify again for any of the succeeding contests.

While boy and girl couples are preferred there is nothing in the rules to keep two girls from competing.

Couples must register before the contest, either with the coupon appearing in The News-Journal or with entry blanks obtained at the Ohio theater. After filling them out they must be returned either to the theater or the newspaper office.

Any kind of jitter steps are eligible, but all professional dancers are barred. Couples may compete on just one dance or on all of them.

Un-Americanism Investigator Lashes Critics; Writer Calls Hearing 'Unfair.'

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Chairman Martin Dies of the house committee investigating un-American activities, today demanded that the Mutual Broadcasting system give time to a "fair and reputable" newspaper man to reply to a broadcast attack on the committee by Paul Y. Anderson, noted Washington correspondent.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Chairman Dies (D-Tex) said today the house committee on un-American activities may have to end its hearings soon because its $25,000 expense fund is running low.

Since President Roosevelt and members of his administration have taken some verbal digs at the committee, Dies was none too hopeful of getting more cash after congress meets in January.

The $25,000 would have gone farther, the chairman indicated in a radio address last night, had government departments supplied lawyers, investigators, stenographers and clerks in accordance with the house resolution ordering the investigation.

'All Pleas Fail.'

He said, however, that appeals to the justice and labor departments, the WPA, and finally to the president had brought no results.

In fact, he added, Secretary Perkins and Secretary of Interior Icks joined "certain radical writers" in a campaign "to discredit the committee by ridicule and misrepresentation."

By arrangement of the Democratic national committee, Paul Y. Anderson, Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Star-Times, followed Dies on the air. Anderson said he had seen some "slipshod" and "shockingly unfair" congressional investigations but declared none had approached the Dies committee's hearings in either of those respects.

"Some of the most fantastic yarns ever heard outside of an insane asylum," he added, "are gravely accepted by the committee without the faintest effort to discover whether the witnesses are credible or responsible or whether they are actuated by ulterion motives."

Anderson said the committee used an "extraordinary presentation and manipulation of witnesses" for political effect, regardless of "the damage the truth suffers in the process."

Dies contended, on the other hand, that every person or organization against whom charges were made in hearings had an invitation to appear before the committee.

Two Traffic Crash Victims Leave Hospital.

Miss Madalyne Liston, 22, of Galion, and Mrs. Ella Murray, 65, of Akron, confined to General hospital as the result of injuries suffered in automobile accidents near Mansfield last week, were released to their homes yesterday, hospital attendants reported today.

Miss Liston suffered head injuries in a three-car collision on U. S. route 42, one mile northeast of Mansfield last Thursday night, and Mrs. Murray suffered head and chest injuries Friday when the car in which she was riding turned over when the driver, Forrest Beall of Indianapolis, lost control in attempting to avoid a collision with a machine entering route 42, near Lexington, from a side road.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Those Who Knew Farley as Fight Czar Laugh at His Fight With Dewey

—By WESTBROCK PEGLER.

NEW YORK—The chickens never did roost too high for some of the friends of our Mr. James Farley, so it was indeed laughable of Mr. Farley to make grabs at his trunks and yell, "Ow! Keep your punches up!" when our Mr. Tom Dewey exposed the yeggmanship of certain Democratic statesmen in Albany in one of his recitations last week.

It was indeed laughable to all who used to know Mr. Farley as chairman of the cauliflower commission and see him on fight nights at the Garden sitting just around the corner from the gorillas who, by order of the commission, were supposed to be excluded from those cultural exercises.

In the interest of moral hygiene, Mr. Farley's commission had ruled that criminals were not to be admitted to any of the fight clubs, even as cash customers, but on glamorous nights in those dear, dear, dizzy days of old, our James, from his cathedral, would gaze about and scan the countenances of the very cream—or should one say scum?—of the New York underworld.

On such evenings Mr. Farley's place was in a special row reserved for certain of the more eminent yeggs from the hall—fine, homeloving gentlemen all, with calluses on their hands, not from humble toil, but from the handling of red-hot stoves in the routine of their daily life.

* * *

Mr. Farley has always been a man of liberal mind toward the hard realities of the world. He once explained that he lacked the cruelty to enforce his own regulations, which would have banished fallen men from pugilism, because, after all, they did have to live, and if every hand were turned against them and all doors barred they would be forced to resume a life of crime.

For this I honor him, of course, but I think he should make that his stand publicity and defend the propriety of yeggmanship in politics in Albany on the ground that if yeggs be excluded from politics and pugilism, they will have no alternative but crime of the most vulgar sort.

Certainly it didn't take Mr. Dewey to discover that the gambling rights are regularly parceled out in the city of Saratoga Springs, so close to Albany that on quiet evenings the governor, in his palace, may hear the little mothballs whir and click and the little cubes gamboling on the green.

In fact, gambling had become so important a part of the commerce of Saratoga Springs that when, last summer, through some political error, gambling was forbidden, some of the citizens formed a picket line to protest that their bread and butter was being taken away from them.

* * *

There was much to their contention that gambling should be permitted, but the trouble was that it was against the law, a fact which necessitated the giving and taking of graft by politicians of the yegg type whom Mr. Dewey so piously deplores.

But even conceding the truth of all that Mr. Dewey says and his right to say it, I have been wondering whether Mr. Dewey has anything else on the ball. The job of governing New York is no mere matter of heaving yeggs out of petty office in local administrations, suppressing crap games and busting up rackets.

For the most part those duties belong to the office of prosecutor, which Mr. Dewey now holds in New York.

Mr. Dewey has not yet shown much appreciation of the greater issues, and Mr. Lehman has been one of the best governors of his time in the entire country.

On the careers to date I don't think it would be an even trade and, moreover, if it was such an urgent matter to get Mr. Dewey into the district attorneyship so short a time ago, the same evils would require that he stay there and finish a job he gave us to understand he alone was qualified to do. As to many matters in his new candidacy Mr. Dewey seems to say "If you love me, dear, you'll trust me," and many a nice girl has regretted falling for that.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Eddie Albert has clicked. Rock Island, Ill., can run up the flag for a native son who made good in his first movie. Minneapolis, Minn., can rah-rah for the home-town boy who ran away with "Brother Rat."

Eddie is back in New York now. He came from there—from "Room Service"—to do the movie "Brother Rat." He'll be back, and Hollywood will be waiting for him with parts. Hollywood thinks it has found an actor—and another proof that a collar-ad face is excess baggage when it comes to movie clicking.

Eddie isn't another Robert Taylor. He isn't a new Clark Gable. He won't send Jimmy Cagney into retirement. He's a plain lad with a gift for being funny and pathetic at the same time, for acting rings around the competition.

His name used to be Heimburger. When he was working over the air the announcers called it Hamburger so often that he dropped it.

* * *

Personally, I hadn't realized the extent of Eddie's success until I talked to Marie Wilson. Marie's ambition is still—guess?—to learn how to act. Seeing Eddie Albert act depresses her.

"I see him," says Marie, "and I get woozy. How can I ever get to be that good?"

Marie's higher education, incidentally, is progressing.

But Marie is still one of our most amazing — and sweetest — characters. The girl who wrote her own script for her first screen test had just been writing her own script for an appearance at a U. S. C. football rallly.

But I, for one, refuse to believe that this quotation, culled from a Warner studio report of the affair, is anything less than rank libel: "If we lose the first quarter, boys, even if we lose the second quarter, why, even is we lose our last quarter—what of it? Money isn't everything!"

* * *

What I have longed suspected is true. This office harbors a soul with no romance and no glammer in his make-up. A cynic, b'gosh. This note, found in my typewriter, speaks volumes:

"Some boid called to inform you that Earl Carroll, who is GOING to build a gigantic colossal theater-cafe in Hollywood, has called for chorus gals to show up for trials. . . . Now if Mr. Carroll should NOT find enough Calif. beauties for his revue he will immediately hightail to NY to get rest of same and there will be a lasting stigma on Hollywood, etc., etc.

"This boid would like to have youse guys present because all the people that count will be there.

"Also, this boid says on Monday noon W. C. Fields will give a party on the site of the prospective gigantic colossal theater-cafe for Carroll, Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor, etc. They will be there with goils without much clothes. (Benny, Cantor, Fields, etc., will have clothe such as overalls—don't misunderstand me). They will sit around in the dirt and eat caviar out of lunch pails with the workmen who are starting the project.

"This boid trusts youall are more impressed than am I."

Such irreverence, of course, shall not be tolerated I shall speak to the fella, sharply.

Galion Scene of Shelby Tilt

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

JUST NOTES: This is a bad year for Mansfield football teams. The high school, semi-pro and bantamweight representatives have won three games and lost 12. . . . This talk about Mansfield and Sandusky dissolving their rivalry because of misunderstandings (and it has nothing to do with the ball game) at this year's game have been officially denied . . . Dick Cassi ino, a member of the "world's greatest backfield," is the only junior in Pittsburgh's regular lineup . . . Shelby high loses 17 of the 22 members of its current grid squad by graduation

Harry Kipke

Michigan's success on the gridiron this fall should be no surprise to the team's followers. Harry Kipke predicted it when he got the old heave-ho . . . But Fritz Crisler will probably be nominated the country's No. 1 coach for making Kipke's prediction come true . . . Akron West's Russ Beichley can understand how Russ Murphy feels these days. The Cowboys, whose only defeat was administered by the Tygers last fall, have dropped four straight decisions . . . Galion high's athletic treasury will get a boost when Shelby comes to its city for that all-important N. C. O. tussle Nov. 11. Fans are already trying to buy ducats for that one.

Coach Bill Query of Shelby high is taking the bitter with the sweet this autumn. His eyes have been giving him trouble and he has been spending much of his time in specialists' offices . . . Lawrence Loney writes from over Howard way that Mt. Gilead may surprise some of its Mid-State league foes . . .

Reds, Lombardi Get Together on Contract In Hurry.

SID FEDER ADDS: Funny how fast the Reds and Ernie Lombardi got together on the '39 salary question, once it became known the Schnozzola was named most valuable player. . . . Incidentally, Boston's Bees now are the only club which never had a National league most valuable . . . Go get 'em, Casey. . . . The Garcia go is Henry Armstrong's 13th in New York. . . . Better bring that rabbit's foot, Hennery. . . . Add similes: "As gullible as a sophomore end." (Credit Princeton Coach Tad Weiman.)

Fordham Jimmy Crowley reports on the Pitt situation: When you play those Panthers, it's awful tough being on the defense—and that's where you are most of the time. . . . Gosh, we never saw so many blockers in our lives. . . . Incidentally, the forgotten men of the year are those guys on the Pitt line. . . . You never hear of 'em, but they really play for keeps. . . . Gertrude Whelton, a Galveston rooter, rises to oppose the idea the southwest plays the best football (can this be treason?) . . . What happened, she asks, to Southern Methodist against Pitt and to Arkansas and Texas Aggies against Santa Clara. . . . The teams around here just aren't what they're cracked up to be, she says. . . . Why Miss Whelton!!!!

* * *

Lou Little doesn't like that talk of Virginia being a "breather" for Columbia Saturday . . . "Why, they might catch us out of breath instead," he points out. . . . And Fordham scouts report St. Mary's coming in from the coast this week-end, has its best outfit in four or five years. . . . And might have taken California with a few breaks.

California—The Team Nobody Remembered—Heads Right Toward Rose Bowl Encore

Experts Reconsider Their Pre-Season Ideas as Bears Win.

By SAM JACKSON

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — The team that everybody forgot is suddenly being remembered—especially at Pasadena, where they hand out the invitation to the annual Rose Bowl classic.

That team is California, which reached mid-season with a record of six straight victories and no defeats. And no team that has been trampled underfoot by the Golden Bears feels half so unhappy about it as the experts and commentators, who ranked California third, fourth or even fifth in the Pacific coast conference race.

True, California was the 1937 champion and topped off the season with a Rose Bowl victory over Alabama. But six first-string men —every one of whom made one or more All-America teams — were lost by graduation.

Change of System.

It is now apparent that preseason analysts devoted too much thought to the stars who were lost and not enough to the up-and-coming youngsters who remained. Accepting the adage that half a team is better than none, Coach Stud Allison set to work to plug the holes.

"Last year we were overladen with power," he commented. "The boys delighted in bowling over the opposition through sheer strength. This year we will have to rely more on speed and passing attacks."

The results have been spectacular.

To take the championship, the Bears must continue winning, but they have a decided adge on late-season rivals.

The name that stands out in California's brilliant season is that of Vic Bottari, the left halfback. Though somewhat overshadowed by Sam Chapman last year, Bottari even then was the conference's leading scorer and ground gainer.

This year, in addition to toting the ball, he has taken over Quarterback John Meek's job as field general, and has proved one of the cagiest.

Big Dave Anderson, a star on last year's championship team, is still reeling off yardage. In Louis Smith the bears have developed a kicker that makes Chapman's loss less serious.

Perhaps the main situation that caused the experts to sell the Bears short was that in the middle of the line. Through graduation California lost Center Bob Herwig and Vard Stockton and Charlie Evans, guards. But if there's any weakness there this season the opposition has been unable to find it.

Taking a backward look at California prospects, one sees several reasons why the team might have been a favorite from the start.

For one thing, the university boasts the huge enrollment of 15,300—and in that number of students there are bound to be some football players.

VIC BOTTARI . . . one of the Bears' cagiest.

COACH ALLISON

Played His Substitutes.

Then five first-stringers were left from a team widely regarded as the best in California's history.

Moreover, throughout last season Coach Allison consistently yanked out the first team at the half and as a result the younger material for the 1938 eleven consisted largely of seasoned veterans.

Also, the schedule permitted the Bears to gradually build up for their crucial games instead of bumping their heads in the openers—as Washington did against Minnesota and U. S. C. against Alabama.

Probably the greatest deflation of a favorite in coast conference history has been seen in the downfall of Washington. Almost universally picked for champion or at least a strong contender, Washington disappointed its followers by dropping four of its first five games and tying one.

Galion Plays Marion

Shelby Invades Crestline; Bellville at Danville This Week.

CHAMPIONSHIP hopes will again be at stake in headline high school grid tilts on schedule this week-end.

This week will find Madison opening its defense of the Mid-State league title. It is host to Loudonville, beaten by one touchdown by Bellville, under the high-scoring Rams' lights Friday.

Goes to Marion.

Galion, Shelby's chief rival for the N. C. O. crown, goes to Marion Friday night, and will attempt to duplicate the Whippets' feat of turning back the Presidents.

If the Orangemen can beat the Presidents, the title will be paid off on the Galion-Shelby game on schedule for Nov. 11. Neither Galion nor Shelby has been beaten this season.

The only other league games scheduled this week are between Mt. Vernon and Bucyrus of the N. C. O. and New London and Wellington of the Northern Ohio conference.

Boasting of seven straight triumphs, Shelby goes to Crestline Friday night for what is expected to be a thrilling battle. The Whippets hold a big edge on paper, but the Onandagas have been developing rapidly.

Bellville and Mt. Gilead of the Mid-State league take on non-loop foes. Bellville plays at Danville Thursday and the Indians entertain Ashley on the same day.

Fredericktown invades Butler Thursday afternoon to help the Bulldogs' followers celebrate Homecoming Day.

Saturday's only game will find Mansfield and Ashland reopening their 38-year rivalry in Ashland.

Standings Unchanged.

No radical changes were made in the standings of the neighborhood teams during the past week. Shelby defeated Marion, 21 to 0, and Bellville won on a forfeit to remain in the undefeated bracket with Galion. Galion was scheduled to play at Rossford, but the game was called off because of a mix-up in schedule. Team records follow:

Man of Year

ERNIE LOMBARDI

Lombardi Voted 'Valuable' Award in National.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Big, lumbering Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati Reds' catcher who they say can hit a baseball as hard as any man who ever lived, today was announced as the most valuable player in the National league last season.

The selection was made by a committee of 24 members of the Baseball Writers' association of America. Lombardi, who won the National league batting championship with an average of .342, received 229 points as compared to a perfect score of 336.

Bill Lee, Chicago Cubs, right hander who led the National league pitchers with 22 victories and nine defeats, was the runner up with 166 points.

Always a dangerous hitter, Lombardi last season improved his catching technique to such an extent that last season his receiving was an important factor in the Reds' rise from the cellar to fourth place.

Lombardi is the old time, rough and ready type of ball player. When he first came up to Brooklyn in 1931 he reported wearing a cap and with a bat in one hand and a small bag in the other. Scribes getting a line on him asked him numerous questions. Then one said to him:" Do you play golf?"

"Golf!" he roared. "Maybe you fellows don't know who you're talking to. I'm Brotcho Lombardi, the ball player."

After a year with the Dodgers he was swapped to the Reds in a 6-player deal and has been a valuable member of the Rhinelanders for seven seasons. His lifetime average is close to .320.

Selby Topples 663 Pins In Club League

Leads Liederkranz Club to 2916 Total In Matches Bowled at Meder Recreation Alleys.

PILING up a fancy 663 figure, Selby led the third place Liederkranz to a high 2916 total in the Club Handicap league at the Meder alleys last night.

Selby put together a string of 212, 214 and 237 games, but a 120-pin per game handicap was more than the Liederkranz club could overcome, and it dropped two decisions to the Commercial Managers, tied with the American Legion for first place.

The Liederkranz rolled out games of 990, 965 and 961 as it bowed to the Managers, led by Frick's 624.

Young, 614, and Smith, 605, paced the Legionnaires to a 2899 count as they swept their series with the Kiwanis club. Shepherd scored a 605 as the Mansfield Athletic club took two games from the J. A. C. club.

Garrison's 611 featured the Mansfield Savings Bank's two wins over the Schoolmasters. The Tracy & Avery club won two games from the Baku Grotto in the other match.

Bowlers Plan Doubles Loop

Circuit to Replace Old City Class A League.

Unsuccessful in the attempt to revive the City Class A bowling league, Mansfield bowling officials today started work on the organization of a doubles league for the city's premier keglers, Mike Meder of the Recreation alleys announced today.

According to Meder, the proposed league would carry individual standings, but all matches would be bowled as doubles, with the bowlers alternating partners each night.

Bowlers interested in the circuit are requested to contact Meder at the alleys.

Harmon, Hume Passed In Ohio High School Scoring Battle

Grate of Greenfield, Who Scored 59 Points Last Week, Takes Over Touchdown Leadership.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Scintillating individual performances highlighted Ohio's high school football panorama today, despite the fact 18 scholastic teams roared on undefeated and three fell by the wayside for the first time in last week-end's contests.

The No. 1 luminary was Carl Grate, fullback of Greenfield McClain's mighty team, who scored nine touchdowns and added five extra points as he and his mates swept over Circleville 75 to 6. That performance wound up Grate's scholastic grid career, McClain finishing its season with seven wins in a row and a scoring mark of 243 again 80 for the foe.

Started at Tackle.

Grate, who played three full years and this season's opening game at tackle, leaped to the top of the scoring parade with 145 points for his six contests as a backfielder. That total gave him a 19-point edge over Alliance's 16-year-old Hillis Hume, who counted two touchdowns in losing to Canton McKinley 33 to 26.

The Greenfield star, 18 years old, almost six feet tall and weighing 190, said he would enroll at the University of Alabama next year.

Grate's performance against Circleville was not the only standout event of the week-end. Marion Motley, Canton McKinley's huge colored back, scored four touchdowns and three extra points, and threw a pass for the fifth touchdown, as the Bulldogs handed Alliance its second defeat of the year, the husky triple-threat star accounting directly or indirectly for all the winning points.

Paul Sarringhaus, Hamilton's near-sighted punter, passer and runer, scored two touchdowns as the Big Blue beat Springfield 19 to 12, giving him 96 points for the year; Dick Huston of Toledo Libbey jumped to 108 by scoring the touchdown that beat Defiance 7-0; Gene Harmon of Mansfield Madison, the state's top-scoring outfit with 262 points, hiked his record to 115 and third place in the standing by counting one touchdown that helped beat Mansfield's Reserves 14 to 0; Tony Woiodzko, Elyria's 145-pound halfback, scored five times as Cleveland Shaw was swamped 44 to 13.

Louis to See Armstrong-Garcia Go Wednesday

By HYPE IGOE.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, arrives today to see the little brown champion, Henry Armstrong, defend his welterweight title against Ceferino Garcia in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Joe greatly admires the little shaver who set the sports world agog by winning three world's titles. Louis, himself, would have relished setting such a mark.

While in New York Joe is going to delve into the problem of agreeing on a worthy opponent for his January appearance in this city.

One of four men may get the crack at the champion. John Henry Lewis, the light heavy-weight champion, being the leading candidate. Then there is Maurice Strickland, the Australian who has been hankering for the shot, and should Gunnar Barlund defeat Bob Pastor in their proposed bout, he might get the berth.

Armstrong put in an afternoon of "bolo-punch" blocking and countering. The bolo punch is Garcia's best bet.

My own guess is that Garcia is going to "cross" Armstrong in the matter of the "bolo." Watching Garcia in training for several days, I noted that he wasn't putting in much practice on the "bolo," but was giving his entire attention to a left hook to the body.

Armstrong will do whatever work he undertakes today with a view to holding every possible ounce of weight as against the 10 pounds he may have to concede the Philippine wonder. The champion is merely a lightweight and it is quite possible that he will come in under 135 when they come to the scales.

ZERONE
Fifty cents' worth now keeps most cars safe down to 10° above zero
MAYBE this is an "Indian Summer" day, when you're not even thinking of anti-freeze. But you know a cold snap will come. Set your mind at ease now. Have your dealer or service station man put a couple of quarts of Du Pont "Zerone" Anti-Freeze in your car today.
Check the radiator solution from time to time. When winter gets down to real business, add enough "Zerone" for lower temperatures. Scientific tests prove that radiator losses are chiefly mechanical, and even then you lose a solution of "Zerone" and water—not one or the other alone. With "Zerone" you get improved engine performance, due to better heat dissipation and more pep and efficiency, through prevention of rust and corrosion in a clean cooling system. All for only $1.00 a gallon. Du Pont, "Zerone" Div., Wilmington, Del.

USE OF STORM WINDOWS FOR WINTER BACK

Extra Window Glasses Stage Comeback as Guard Against Frigid Weather.

Storm windows are staging a strong comeback, according to builders, architects, and manufacturers engaged in producing glass and window sash.

Thirty or forty years ago these extra window glasses were considered necessities in many sections where winters were long and cold and heating was sketchy at best. With the coming of new types of heating systems and the adoption of the practice of insulating houses, the need lessened to some extent. In order to effect a saving in building costs, storm windows gradually feel into disuse.

The awakening of home owners to the possibilities of comfort and efficiency afforded by double glazing has re-created popularity for insulating glass, and storm windows are once again being widely used.

By having two thicknesses of glass in place of one, and because there is a mass of dead air between the two panes, cold from the outside cannot reach the interior of a house nearly as readily or intensely as when only a single window is used. A savings in fuel that will in a short period pay for the costs of double glazing is possible where the windows are thoroughly weatherstripped before the second sash is installed.

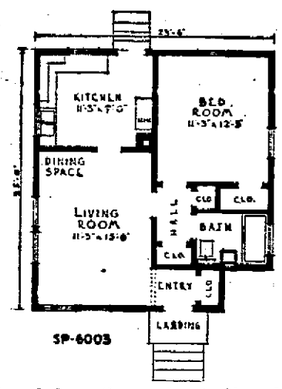
The Property Improvement Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration offers home owners a convenient way of obtaining funds to carry out modernization work of this type. The money is obtained from lending institutions qualified by the FHA.

NATURAL PIGMENTS

Germany's many minerals usable in pigment production include sienna, cinnabar, white clays, mineral blue, glauconite, slate gray, iron oxide, malachite, graphite, whiting, green sand, manganese brown, umber and ocher.

Ideal House for Newlyweds

(Copyright by Southern Pine Association)



Here is an attractive little one-bedroom house that would be ideal for newlyweds with whom economy is an important consideration. The living room, bedroom and kitchen are all of good size, and there is plenty of space in the kitchen for serving meals.

The flue is located in the center of the house with the idea that one heating unit in the living room will heat practically the entire house. Ample closet space is provided.

If desired a screened-in porch can easily be added across the back or side of the house.

This is a really "low-cost" home and the specifications provide for good quality materials and correct construction methods. Use of properly manufactured, seasoned and graded southern pine lumber for both interior and exterior construction is recommended for this low-cost home.

ELIMINATION OF 'GINGERBREAD' CUTS COST OF CONSTRUCTION

The nonessential exterior home ornaments of yesteryear present a forceful example to present-day home buyers and builders of what not to include in plans for their residence.

"Gingerbread" decorations which were considered quite proper on the up-to-the-minute home of several decades or more ago have no place in today's plan of home design, Federal Housing Administration officials say. In fact, such ornaments as lacy wooden scrollwork, turrets, spires, and minarets definitely date a residential structure.

These nonessential items added little to the artistic appearance of the home and, on resale, detracted from the whole.

Prospective home builders are urged by the Federal Housing Administration to use the services of a competent architect in drawing plans for their future home. This serves as a check on individual whims and the desire to include unnecessary decorative items which add nothing to the utility of a home and simply detract from its future value.

A further reason for conservatism in exterior home decoration is the fact that mortgages to be eligible for insurance by the Federal Housing Administration must be on homes of sound construction which are livable and in a stable neighborhood and which are not of divergent design from those in the immediate surroundings.

RESTFUL COLOR SCHEME

Extremely restful in coloring and decidedly livable, is a living room in a modern home. Off-white window draperies with tomato colored swags break the pale fawn color of the painted walls and ceiling. The beaver brown rug and brown upholstery are charmingly accented by the paler colors of the walls and draperies.

PRICE OF KANSAS WHEAT VITAL TO G. O. P.

Republicans See Chance to Win Back Control as Result of Crop Situation.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the fifth of a series of stories on important election contests in various states.

* * *

(By Associated Press)

TOPEKA—A 50 per cent decline in the price of wheat in the past twelve months put Kansas in the doubtful column for the November congressional election.

The nation's major wheat-producing state, Kansas joined the New Deal parade behind the candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932. When grain prices slumped to the depression bottom, the "breadbasket" state revolted against the Hoover ticket despite the fact a native son, Charles Curtis, was the vice presidential candidate.

Turned Down Landon.

It stayed in that parade in 1936 even though its governor, Alf M. Landon, was the Republican choice to replace President Roosevelt in the White House. Wheat prices were on the upgrade and farmers were receiving millions in farm benefit payments.

This year the situation is different. A year ago wheat was bringing the Kansas farmers slightly more than a dollar a bushel. Now he is doing well to get half that much. Rumblings of farmer dissatisfaction are heard again.

Kansas Republicans count on the low price of wheat to help them unseat the Democratic Senator George McGill. Their choice is fiery former Governor Clyde M Reed, close friend of Kansas' noted editor, William Allen White.

Hot Governor's Race, Too.

Often described as a "liberal Republican, Reed's strength in the past rested largely on farmer support. McGill's backers believe his active interest in farm legislation and the campaign aid extended by Postmaster General James A. Farley will give him victory.

Sharing the Kansas campaign spotlight is the hot battle for the governorship. Democratic Governor Walter Huxman, ardent supporter of the New Deal, is opposed by youthful State Senator Payne Ratner, political protege of Landon.

A Huxman victory, his friends declare, would make him an important figure in 1940—possibly as a vice presidential candidate.

rated bicycles and riders were won by Cosma Long, 5 France street, $2; Gerald and Robert Keysor, 400 McPherson street, each $1, and Robert Ohler, 296 East Fourth street, $1.

There were dozens of trucks and cars in the parade, all decorated, and many of them in an original manner. A "one-lung Lizzie" of ancient vintage, attracted considerable attention.

Eugene Linham, chairman of the parade committee, today expressed the appreciation of the sponsors at the turnout for the parade, which far exceeded their expectations.

A part of the celebration was the dances at three halls, all sponsored by the Gasoline Retailers. There were several hundred dancers, many of them in costume, at the Grosvenor, the Moose hall and Delano hall.

Davey reiterated that "this whole controversy was conceived in dirty politics," and added that, "no persons or government would be injured if the federal board would send their half of the pension money. . . . They are merely custodians of public funds."

The federal board has refused to grant its 50-per cent share of money for Ohio pensions because of the refusal of Governor Davey to allow changes in the state system demanded by the board. An impasse has existed several weeks.

Observers See Shake-up New Step to Remove Officers of Imperial Days.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN — Military observers today saw in the appointment of a new chief of the army general staff another step in the gradual removal of officers clinging to the ideas of imperial days or unwillingly fully to go along with the whole program under the Nazi regime.

Chancellor Hitler yesterday named Lieutenant General of Artillery Franz Halder, 54, to the post which General Ludwig Beck resigned because he could not see eye to eye with Hitler.

Colonel-General Fedor Von Bock, 54, was named to succeed Colonel-General Gerd Von Rundstedt, commander of army group No. 1.

Hitler continued the reorganization today by promoting Major General Wilhelm Keitel to the rank of colonel general. He is a member of the secret cabinet council, was said to have no political ambitions and has been known in some quarters as the mystery man of the German war machine.

The annual naval changes announced in June became effective today simultaneously with the military changes. Among them was the naming of Rear Admiral Hermann Boehm to be fleet commander.

HELD TO JURY

Man Accused in Stabbing Case Pleads Innocent.

Pleading innocent in municipal court today to a charge of stabbing with intent to wound, Ike Harris, colored, whose address was not given, was bound over to the grand jury under $1,500 bond.

Charges were filed by William Gaines, colored, whom Harris is alleged to have stabbed with a knife during an altercation on North Adams street, Saturday night

Three traffic cases scheduled for court today were continued, two until tomorrow and the third until Friday. Those to be arraigned before Acting Judge S. H. Cramer at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow are H. L. Young, Akron, and C. F. Casterman, Cleveland, both charged with careless and reckless driving.

Friday Maurice Hodge, Sharon, Pa., will face the court on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

'Y' ROUND-UP ENDS TOMORROW

Workers to Give Final Reports at Dinner Meeting.

The annual Y. M. C. A. membership round-up, in progress for the past week, will come to a close with a dinner meeting for workers at 6 p. m. Wednesday in the "Y" dining room.

Final reports of the drive for 300 new members will be given at this meeting. The half-way mark in the campaign was reached last Friday when 150 members were reported signed.

MOURN WOOLSEY

Movie Colony Saddened by Death of Comedian.

HOLLYWOOD—(U.P.)—The motion picture colony today mourned the death of Robert Woolsey, 49, the sardonic, cigar-smoking comedian who earned $100,000 a picture at the height of his fame with Bert Wheeler.

He died last night at his Malibu Beach home after being ill more than a year. He was in a coma the last two days. His wife, the former Mignone Reed, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Reed, were at his bedside.

Woolsey, under contract to RKO, was forced to retire a year ago because of a kidney ailment.

The Woolsey-Wheeler team appeared in a score of pictures.

Their last picture was "High Flyers." When Woolsey retired, Wheeler left the movies and opened a haberdashery. He made a few personal appearances.

AID WOODWARD

Townsendites Contribute $589 to G. O. P. Candidate.

Townsend club members have contributed $589 to the campaign of Walter B. Woodward, 17th district Republican candidate for congress, dispatches from Washington reported today. In compliance with the federal election laws, Woodward filed an account of campaign contributions and expenditures.

He listed total contributions of $689, of which Townsenders contributed all but $100. He said he had spent $485. Woodward is an avowed Townsendite.

Representative William A. Ashbrook, Woodward's Democratic poponent, reported expenditures of $1,927 and no contributions.

RETURN TO CITY

Physicians From 13 Counties Hear Lectures Wednesday.

Dr. J. F. Bateman, superintendent of the Columbus state hospital, and Dr. Edward J. McCormick, Toledo, will lecture at the fifth of a series of regional post-graduate medical meetings at 7 p. m. Wednesday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Physicians from 13 counties in northcentral Ohio will attend the meeting which will be sponsored by the Ohio State Medical association.

Dr. Bateman will talk on "Common Psychoses" and Dr. McCormick will lecture on the treatment of cancer. Dr. McCormick formerly was president of the Toledo Academy of Medicine and is now grand exalted ruler of the Elks lodge.

Wives of the visiting physicians will be guests of the wives of Mansfield doctors at a card party at the hotel during the lecture session.

2 Cars Turn Over At Same Culvert, Drivers Bruised

Automobiles driven by George Bowman, Mansfield, and Reamer Bricker of near Shelby blocked traffic on the Bowman street road for an hour last night when the cars turned over at the same culvert, but the drivers had only a few bumps to show for their experience.

Bowman's car was first to turn over after it hit the end of the culvert and rolled over in the highway.. Then Bricker, approaching from the north and seeing the machine in the road, attempted to stop his car, but lost control of it and the machine tipped over a few feet from where Bowman was just emerging from his automobile.

Bowman's auto was damaged at the front end where it hit the end of the culvert, but neither car was harmed to any great extent, Deputy Sheriff J. R. Hetler said.

The accidents occurred about 9:45 p. m. just north of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate plant.

INJURED IN MILWAUKEE

Mrs. Jack Gettles of Milwaukee, Wis., wife of Jack Gettles formerly of Mansfield, who was seriously injured in an auto accident two weeks ago, has been released from the Milwaukee hospital where she had been confined since the accident, according to word received here. Mrs. B. J. Gettles, 142 Rae avenue, has been in Milwaukee since the accident.

BLOWS SMOKE IN JUDGE'S FACE BUT PAYS PENALTY---$25, COSTS

F. M. Smith, Ashland, had learned a lesson in court etiquette today but it cost him $31.30.

Walking into municipal court yesterday with his hat on and puffing a cigaret, Smith had been cited on a charge of careless and reckless driving.

"Tell me the facts in this case," Acting Judge Stuart H. Cramer inquired of State Highway Patrolman L. D. Alexander. Atty. Cramer is on the bench this week in the absence of Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch who is vacationing in New York state.

Alexander related that Smith had been arrested on U. S. route 42 north of Mansfield while driving at a speed of 85 miles an hour and failed to halt at the officer's siren which was "wide open."

Smith pleaded guilty but corrected the officer's testimony that it was "90 miles an hour."

"I'm going to suspend your operator's license for 90 days —" Cramer began.

"But your honor, don't do that," Smith pleaded as he whiffed a cloud of cigaret smoke across the bench.

The court winced, "and $25 and the costs for smoking that cigaret and blowing the smoke in the court's face. Maybe that will teach you some respect."

"But——," began Smith again.

"Court adjourned," the judge announced, as he closed the docket and retired.

FARM BUREAU SETS MEETING

County Unit Names Officers, Hears Annual Reports Here Tomorrow.

The Richland County Farm Bureau will elect officers and hear reports of the year's activities at the organization's annual meeting at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the First M. E. church, Mansfield.

Members will also elect four delegates to the state farm bureau convention in Columbus Nov. 17 and 18.

C. C. Bair, Columbus, of the organization division of the state farm bureau, will be the principal speaker at Wednesday's session which will be in charge of Robert L. Smith, Springfield township, president of the county organization.

The program will include numbers by a chorus, accordion selections by the Hershey sisters, Mansfield, and vocal solos by Arthur Boyce.

Officers of the county farm bureau in addition to Smith are C. C. Till, Sharon township, vice president, and Mary Gramly, Weller township, secretary.

BUSY SESSION

Council Faces Heavy Calendar at Tonight's Meeting.

City council at its regular October session tonight will be faced with a flood of legislation including an ordinance authorizing an appropriation for $700 for the purchase of two-way radio equipment for the police department and a request for the installation of parking meters in downtown Mansfield.

The appropriation ordinance will be presented by Police Chief Meade K. Bates who will ask council for the funds to provide the installation of ultra high frequency transmitters in the city's four police cruisers.

The request for the installation of the parking meters has been filed by the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants association as a means of parking control on downtown streets.

Council also will be asked to approve the sale of $60,500 in relief bonds to the Citizen's National Bank and Trust company, which were awarded to the firm yesterday by Mayor Claude M. Hunter and City Auditor Paul L. Kelley at a private sale.

HIDES IN HILLS

Miner Flees Arrest Ordered in Marriage to Girl, 10.

PRESTONBURG, Ky.—(INS)—Faced by the hostile silence of Kentucky's mountaineers, law officers today vainly sought Fleming Tackett for his marriage to a child of 10.

A warrant charging the 34-year-old miner with rape was issued here yesterday as authorities moved to teach the hill-folk a lesson for often repeated defiance of the "lawbooks."

Mrs. Rosie Columbus Tackett, the girl bride of a week, and her mother, Mrs. Grace Columbus, were also put under arrest and brought to jail here from their two-room tumbledown log cabin in the hills.

The girl's mother was accused of conspiring on the rape charge because of her admitted fraud in obtaining a marriage license for the girl by claiming she was 15 years old. Rosie was held as a delinquent child living in an atmosphere of crime and idleness.

CHAPTER 34

You can do many things while your heart is breaking. You can eat, you can sleep, you can smile and gesture and talk. Sometimes you can do it so well that no one guesses that you are a marionette, performing on a lot of invisible strings.

That was the way it was with Judy during the next few days.

Once more she was acclaimed. Those same reporters who had been so quick to seize her picture when she had been connected with the Danceland story, welcomed the opportunity to herald the design contest. They told the public that she would be an assistant to Cordelli. They discovered her hotel address, printed it, and telephone calls, notes, invitations, flowers from old friends who had not known where she was, came in.

Judy was too tired at night to think. Now and then a crooked smile and the flash of a pair of gray eyes would puncture a dream, and she would waken, remembering.

* * * *

Judy had a pile of clippings of her own venture. She paid no attention to her father's come-back, though the stories sometimes linked that event with her own success. He had pushed her away when she had needed him. She would not go home.

She did move, though. This time she chose an apartment in an old red brick house in the lower twenties, east of Fifth avenue. She had the top floor rooms—a great, beamed living room with a fireplace that was flanked by book shelves, dormer windows that opened on the street, a smaller bedroom and a kitchenette. She had been given the bedroom suite, the choise lounge, the desk and lounging chairs of her own room at the apartment, as a gift, so she sent for them with no twinge of conscience.

Coralee came over and helped hem cushions, hang prints and draperies, arrange furniture.

When everything was ready, Judy went down the street to a flower stand and bought lavishly—purple violets whose blooming was limited to a night; fragile yellow roses; an armful of old-fashioned flowers. She bought candles, too.

She had a home.

Not a place to stay until it was time to join her mother in some hotel abroad. Not a room in an American hotel where she could remain until her credit was exhausted. Not a bed in somebody's house for a span of days. A home.

A home, work, peace — these were the crying needs of the human heart and they were hers. She did not mention love, though she knew that the term waited, just out of reach. She must work, work, work—

The bell which announced visitors rang, and she pressed the button which released the great front door, four flights down. She leaned over the railing, looking into the dim well of the stairs, and said: "Who is it, please?"

"The Press!" a cheerful voice answered.

"In battle formation. We want pictures."

"Pictures? Why?"

"Editor's orders. The public wants to see how you're doing."

"The public doesn't care a hoot! You pack up those picture-taking boxes and right about face—" She laughed as she said it.

"Too late, honey! We're in. Nice way to talk to a lot of people who want to give you a house warming."

There were five young men in the group, two of them reporters, three of them cameramen.

They came in. They took pictures, and Judy entered the spirit of it.

* * *

There was one tall boy, with rust-brown hair and gray eyes oddly like Ronald's. He was the merriest of the group.

"You haven't had a house warming?" he asked. "That will never do! I move we undo that damage at once. Peter, there's a delicatessen over on Sixth avenue — get cold chicken and ham and potato salad—and you know the menu, Jimmy . . ."

He gave orders, and presently Judy and the five were facing a table filled with food.

* * *

It was all so gay, so comfortable, so informal that she relaxed. In that Park avenue world you dressed for every party. You wore one frock to a tea, and rushed home to change to a dinner or dance ensemble.

Judy sat in a deep chair as the logs burned in the fireplace. One of the reporters had known a firewood stion, at the edge of Greenwich Village, where a quarter would buy enough timber to keep the fire going for a couple of evenings.

"You'll learn," he explained. "Never buy green wood, either. It doesn't burn—"

Suddenly someone gave a whistle of complete surprise.

"The count!"

"It's nearly 10 o'clock!"

"Goodby, Judy, we'll see you often!"

"The count?" she repeated. "Not Count Phillipe Alexis von Gunderfield?"

"The same. Do you know him?"

They were putting on coats, adjusting cameras and papers.

"Very slightly. What has he done?"

"He's marrying a pretty widow this evening and sailing away on her yacht through the wintry waters to Bermuda."

"Mrs. Bedford?" asked Judy.

"Yeah! Where did you learn so much?"

"I heard something about it."

"There was an heiress but that plopped, and he and the widow Bedford seem made for each other. The Boland child is making eyes at the attorney in the Griffith Steel jamboree." The boy who resembled Ronald said that. His name was Bob Cushing and he gripped Judy's hand as he left. He was a special assignment man.

"I want to see you soon—and often."

Later Judy wondered why he had come along that night. She ddi not know then that he had been at Toni's, one of the newspaper hangouts, when the four others came in, wondering where and why to find Judy Rogers before they went after the count. Through much telephonnig around they obtained her address. With a loose evening on his hands, Bob Cushing decided to join the party.

He had seen Judy's pictures and liked the tilt of her nose, the upward slant of her laughing eyes. Here was a girl who could take what life dished out! He would like to know her.

However, he wanted to see Count Phillippe before he sailed so he could not remain with Judy when his confreres left. He held her hand a second in leaving and his amused eyes surveyed the remains of the feast.

"There's enough for breakfast and dinner tomorrow night. If you'll wait, I'll drop by and help you with the dishes."

Judy did not think he would. She was amazed the next evening when his shining head appeared on the stairs, in answer to her release of the door catch.

"I came, you see," he said. "I even brought some tea towels. I didn't think you had any."

"You wrote the kindest story about me that anyone ever did," she greeted him. 'I'm so grateful I'll fry you two eggs and a rasher of bacon. You gave me credit for being a person, with a desire to earn my way, instead of something that glitters in reflected light."

Bad Breath Is Health Warning

By John C. Davis, Druggist

An attractive man, a fastidious woman, immaculate in every respect but one, can give offense without realizing it. A foul smelling breath is one of the most serious offenses, and yet one that can be corrected.

Foul breath of course is a sign of something—usually of a health condition that can be corrected.

Sometimes it is the condition of one's teeth and this means dental attenton. Often it is a sign of something else, perhaps bad tonsils, nasal catarrh, a stomach ailment, sinusitis. These conditions call for a physician's examination and scrupulous obedience to his orders.

In no instance is it more important to have the doctor's orders filled by a skilled pharmacist.

"What's the real dope on this Guaranteed Starting?"

"Well—Standard Oil guarantees SOHIO products will start your car every time this winter. If it ever does fail to start, you just call a garage—and send the garage starting bill to Standard Oil."

"Yeah—but how can you afford to guarantee every car will start every time?"

"Lots of people wonder about that. But we've made this offer for the last two years and experience shows that the uniformly high quality of SOHIO winter products and service actually will start your car every time. That's because SOHIO products are made especially to fit Ohio weather."

"You mean, then, it's like insurance?"

"Yes, in a way it's like having insurance. You may never need it—but it's certainly a comfort to have . . . in case! This is our third year of Guaranteed Starting—and increasing thousands of motorists are asking for it each year. They've discovered it's a valuable protection service for themselves and their families."

"How do I get it?"

"Simply bring your car up to Standard on these points—gasoline, motor oil, battery, gear oil—and keep it there. There's no extra charge for your written guarantee . . . get it free when you get your regular winter changeover."

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1938.

Charles Sawyer for Governor

OHIO voters, Democrats and Republicans alike, are vastly more concerned about electing a capable, dependably honest and experienced man as governor of this state, than they are in political parties.

What is most needed in Ohio is a return to decency in the operation of state government and a complete wiping out of Davey influence over departments that have been grievously mishandled for the past several years.

Common practice heretofore has been for a candidate defeated for nomination at his party primary to immediately pledge support and loyalty to his successful opponent. Martin L. Davey, twice elected governor on the Democratic ticket, not only refused to do this but, as has since become apparent, is making every possible effort to throw the support of his personal following to John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for governor, on promise of 30 per cent of state patronage if Bricker is elected.

Such a "deal" reflects not only on Davey and his gang, but also on those of the opposing party organization who would expect to profit by this trickery.

It is entirely understandable that such political chicanery should draw from such a stalwart and honest Democrat as Senator Vic Donahey a denunciation of Davey as a traitor to his party and an earnest appeal to Democratic voters to support Sawyer for governor.

It is regrettable that a man of such high character, fine qualifications and excellent experience as Mr. Sawyer should be compelled to battle against the antagonism of Davey and his henchmen, instead of merely against his opponent in the race.

Not often do the people of Ohio have opportunity to place in the governor's office a man who is so well fitted in every way to perform the duties of that high position as is Charles Sawyer. This statement will not be questioned by those who know Mr. Sawyer, or who have knowledge of his record.

He is the kind of man who is liked and trusted. Reared in humble circumstances, he made his own way through school and college, served his country overseas in the World war, gave indomitable energy to the practice of law and in the cause of good government in his home city of Cincinnati. Afterward he was elected lieutenant governor and for the past two years has been on the Democratic national committee.

Mr. Sawyer, it will be noted, has repudiated support of any groups opposed to American principles, and his war service and entire record has been such as to make ridiculous any charge that he has communistic or radical views.

There are many things to be done in Ohio public business during the next two years, including reorganization of the liquor and highway departments, stabilizing the old-age pension system, developing a sound taxing program and otherwise repairing the damage done by Davey and his cohorts. This would be impossible under a "deal" that would protect jobs of Davey favorites in key positions.

Much depends on the training, experience, judgment and honesty of the man who occupies the office of governor during this period.

It is the belief of The News-Journal that Charles Sawyer is a man who can be depended upon to capably, conscientiously and courageously do the work that needs be done as governor of Ohio, and that he should be elected next Tuesday.

Too Realistic Radio Fiction.

THAT Sunday night broadcast which attained such realism as to cause an almost nationwide panic among presumably intelligent listeners gives an idea of the extreme care that must be exercised to prevent some people from jumping to conclusions without full information.

Here was a case in which dramatization of a weirdly impossible story, when taken piecemeal, was translated into a horrifying reality by vivid imaginations of many listeners, some of whom probably tuned in just in time to hear what seemed to be a news bulletin reciting details of widespread catastrophe.

Demands are being made for investigation by the radio commission, so that repetition of such terrifying experiences can be avoided in the future.

While the dramatization that is now being severely condemned may have passed ordinary bounds of propriety in its simulation of terrifying conditions, it is rather difficult to fix a limit beyond which radio fiction dare not go—there being some listeners who still feel quite sure that Charlie McCarthy is a real person and that Tommy Riggs and Betty Lou are not one and the same.

Moral: If you don't like what's coming in on the radio dial to another station—and don't get excited, even when you hear the nerve-racking laughter of the sinister "Shadow."

The End of a Gambling Career.

THIS editorial is not intended for adults who have acquired the gambling habit and who defend it on the theory that "everybody gambles."

It is directed to the attention of younger persons who may not yet realize the dangers involved in gambling and who might fall innocent victims of the lure to gamble, that they will find almost anywhere they go.

There is a fascination about gambling that, once the habit is acquired, it is almost impossible to shake off.

A traveling salesman who, a few nights ago, plunged to his death from a window on the eighth floor of a Toledo hotel, left a note to his wife in which he told of his vain attempts to overcome the gambling habit and pleaded with her to protect their son from the temptations of gambling.

He told how he had borrowed money to gamble, always with the intention of paying it back, and how he had lost the money.

Nothing unusual about this incident—scarcely worth mentioning—except that it may come to the attention of some youth who might be enabled to think through to the end of a gambling career—untimely death, or years of misery and poverty.

Our industrial civilization can produce everything people need, but falls down in delivery.

Europe seems mostly engaged in finding out what Hitler wants and giving it to him.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—With so much dread over what will happen when Japan completes its conquest of China and when German trade pressure moves in on South America it should be interesting to remember that the United States has one vitally vulnerable spot which for one reason or another it cannot arm. That is Canada.

Canada is a sovereign (almost) and independent (almost) member of the British Commonwealth of Nations and as such might be expected, in a sense, to look out for its own defense. But Canadian officials are not coy about these things. They frankly recognize that the Dominion has only 11,000,000 population and cannot afford to build up defenses sufficient to keep out a first class invader.

* * *

They Bank On U. S.

FOR the United States, however, the condition is a horse of another color. Canada's lack of serious coast defense leaves a door wide open into the Yankee interior, either by way of Vancouver on the west or St. Lawrence ports on the east.

What defense, then, has Canada?

Ian Mackenzie, Canadian defense minister, discussing the 1938 military budget in the last Canadian Parliament in May, explained it.

"I think it might be reasonable to assume," he said, "that in a major conflagration we should have friendly fleets upon the Pacific ocean . . . There is no commitment or understanding in regard to these matters, but at this same time I think reasonable assumptions are possible."

* * *

F. D. R.'s Gesture.

AS TO the Atlantic side, he said the "main deterrent to attack from Europe is the British fleet in North Atlantic waters." Just how happy Canada is now about the security offered by the North Atlantic fleet is another question, since the British "capitulation" to German demands at Munich.

But three months after Mackenzie publicly recognized the United States as one of its defenders, President Roosevelt similarly recognized the situation publicly. In a speech on visit to Canada in August in connection with dedication of an international bridge at Thousand Islands he said the U. S. "will not stand idly by if domination of Canadian soil is threatened by any other empire."

* * *

They Work Together.

IT IS a safe enough guess that regardless of any lack of "understanding" as mentioned by Mackenzie there is sub-rosa cooperation between U. S. and Canadian military and naval experts, particularly with regard to exchange of information which would be useful when any fighting begins.

Beyond that the situation may never be improved. There was a time when the United States looked upon Canada as its next territorial conquest. It was the big prize of the war of 1812—if we had won the war decisively. Again we looked longingly upon Canada after the Civil war as a recompense from England for her careless neutrality. Probably not until the time of the World war did Canadians give up a real fear that United States intended some time to "take over."

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Nov. 1, 1918.

H. C. Ehrick of Bucyrus moved to 103 Dickson avenue, Mansfield.

Snow flakes were seen after a 38 temperature.

Miss Matilda Linskey, superintendent of General hospital, was taken ill as result of overwork on flu cases.

George W. Scroggie was called to Chicago by the illness of a daughter.

Confirmation of the report that Corp. Harry Shearer of Ashland had been killed in France was received by his sisters, Mrs. Ellen Hammett and Mrs. Charles Workman, Mansfield.

William Lowe, custodian of Central park, reported that the gold fish had been stolen from the park fountain basin.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Wednesday, Nov. 1, 1933.

Charles P. Taft, son of the late President William Howard Taft, spoke in Mansfield on behalf of the proposed county home rule amendment.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Longsdorf, Oakland, Cal., formerly of Mansfield, arrived here to visit Mr. and Mrs. Philip Wappner, 98 South Diamond street.

J. Ben Them was elected master of Mansfield lodge, F. and A. M., to succeed D. C. Cole.

Mrs. Mary Anna Lowman, 77 daughter of pioneer residents, died at her home on South Adams street.

Passage of 10-mill tax limitation amendment in approaching election was expected to make an Ohio sales tax inevitable.

THE POLITICAL CROONER

As to South American Colonization

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Well-meaning workers in behalf of Central Europe's refugee Jews are developing a lively interest in the colonization of these unfortunate folk in South America. Washington is the center of this movement's activities in the United States and some of the publicity it is circulating makes very enticing reading.

Its authors' intentions unquestionably are excellent but it is only too evident that they don't know South America. The southern continent is all right, with plenty of room and enormous natural resources. In many years to come it certainly will support tremendous populations. However, it is no realm to be settled in a hurry.

Because of its latitudes the Argentine Republic is the region best adapted to the assimilation of immigrants from climatically temperate countries. It is about one-third the size of the United States, and, acre for acre, more productive—that is, no deserts or dust bowls. The extreme south is rather sterile for crops, but o. k. for livestock. Its inhabitants number a scant 10,000,000—accommodations for three times that many.

Sounds Attractive.

It sounds attractive. The drawback is that, of its 10,000,000 inhabitants, approximately 2,000,000 are concentrated in the single city of Buenos Aires, with roughly 1,000,000 more urbanites in Rosario, Santiago del Estero, Salta, Mendoza and Bahia Blanca.

Obviously this is a mighty bad balance—lots of land for farmers but a plethora of city folks.

Now the Jews once were quite a pastoral people, but in recent generations they have become largely urbanized. Argentina can't absorb them as city dwellers. Yet to transform a city family into a rural family is a near-impossibility on short notice.

It might not be so difficult if land were available in the immediate vicinity of the big centers. It isn't. The semi-suburban belts around South American cities are as thickly settled as here—and land is as expensive.

The pioneer must get into the outermost area. There he'll find land at nominal figures. But he'll also find conditions just as nature created them. He'll have to provide the raw material (mud) for his house. He'll have to dig his own well. He'll have no transportation except what he himself furnishes. Communication?—postal? — telephone? — telegraphic? — radio? None of these. No neighbor!—no doctor! — no general store! — no anything civilized!

No city man can stand this. Not even can the average pioneer stand it.

In my time in South America I saw three colonization attempts made.

The late Tex Rickard made one in northern Argentina. It's a good country, Tex had a nice concession from the government and I understand he spent $1,000,000 trying to make a go of it. His followers mainly were Texas cowboys—very hard-boiled, but they all quit and went home, discouraged.

Alfalfa Bill Murray made a second one, with a gang of Oklahoma cattlemen in his train, in southern Bolivia. That fizzled likewise. I subsequently asked Alfalfa Bill about it. "It was too primitive," he explained to me.

Norwegian Tried It.

A Norwegian named Fred Engen made a third try in northern Paraguay, with a delegation of Mennonites from Saskatchewan — and THAT was a flivver.

Just after the Boer war (before my time) a bunch of Boers endeavored to colonize Patagonia—and THEY vanished from off of the landscape. They didn't leave a sole survivor.

The more tropical part of South America is worse.

It will be developed ultimately, but in no rush, believe me.

A recent Jewish publicity release says:

"What an opportunity for Hebrew youth to seek a new future in a New World in the same manner as the early pilgrims, but without their hardships!"

One wishes them well, of course.

But: Without the pilgrims' hardships!

Timely Editorial

Keeps Fostering Hatred.

Although he draws a salary paid by the American people as a whole, Secretary Harold L. Ickes finds time to leave Washington on periodic speaking junkets to preach a doctrine of class hatred. A more obvious abuse of his high office would be hard to imagine. The interior department has announced that the secretary will renew his inflammatory discussions of "America's Sixty Families" in a west coast personal appearance.

If Mr. Ickes wanted to speak against large industrial combinations and in favor of the small scale business organizations of the past nobody would quarrel with his right to do so—not even those who disagree with him. If he chose to advocate special measures to change the contours of our economic system his right would not be denied. But he does neither of these. He merely seeks to arouse bitter antagonisms by picturing the inequalities of wealth as the product of scheming, reprehensible individuals.

By fostering class hatred in a country singularly free from it in the past he does violence to the tradition of responsibility in the public service.

Health Advice

Need to Repeat Vaccination.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I AM frequently asked how often one should be vaccinated against smallpox.

The usual answer is every seven years from the age of one up to about 30. But no very definite data has been assembled. Therefore, the report of Drs. Lay and Husband on their experience with students at the Kansas State college at Manhattan is welcome.

It is not always remembered, especially by anti-vaccinationists, that in the original experiments of Jenner, in England, and Waterhouse, in America, the immunity of the first recipients of vaccination was carefully tested.

Boy Was First.

The first person ever to be vaccinated against smallpox was James Phipps, an eight-year-old boy, who had never had smallpox. Vaccine matter was put under his skin on May 14th, 1796. He had a slight illness. On the first of July, Jenner, in order to see whether, after so slight an illness, the boy was really immune to smallpox, took some matter from the eruption of an actual case of smallpox and inserted it under James Philip' skin. No disease followed, which it most certainly would if he were susceptible to small pox.

Benjamin Waterhouse, the first American vaccinator, selected his own family for experimental purposes. He had plenty of them. He vaccinated seven of his children. Then, in due time, he marched the whole family, vaccinated and unvaccinated, to the pest house and exposed them all to smallpox. Only the unvaccinated ones took it.

Students In Experiment.

The Manhattan experiment was with groups of matriculating students—one group of 1,053 and another of 986. About 75 per cent had been vaccinated previously. Only about six per cent had been vaccinated more than once previously. This is an astonishingly low figure considering the high intelligence and high social status of the group.

On revaccinating them, about 60 per cent had a "take," showing that they were susceptible to smallpox.

There were 20 per cent more people immune who had been vaccinated one to five years previously, than those who had been vaccinated six to ten years previously.

Twenty per cent more people were immune who had been vaccinated more than once.

The conclusions are that there is a wide individual variation in the duration of smallpox immunity after vaccination. Immunity is lost after vaccination by different people at different rates.

Everyone should be vaccinated once in every five to ten years.

Listen, World!

"Smarty Pants"!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I MANAGE to be fairly friendly with most types of human pest, having hung up a plenty ornery record myself. But there is one variety of Homo Sap which never fails to rouse my homicidal tendencies. I refer to that peculiar obnoxious specimen of Show Off which current slang has so aptly dubbed "The Smarty Pants."

There is nothing new about egotists in general. They are as old as the human race and as common as warts . . . and most of us have served time in their ranks. But the Smarty Pants breed is peculiar to the 20th Century. Unlike the common garden variety of Swell Heads, the Smarty Pants is not happily content with grabbing the spotlight for himself—he must kick someone else in the shin while so doing. It is not enough to boost his own stock—he must simultaneously, belittle the other fellow's.

Nor is there any subject too sacred or any source too remote to serve as a target for the Smarty Pants' spleen. To the uttermost reaches of the star-set infinity, he shoots his spit-balls. God, Himself, cowers before his magnificent Bronx Cheer, or oughtta! As for mere human beings . . . piffling lil pee-wee's like Professor Einstein, Madame Curie, Abe Lincoln, Alexander the Great, and ole J. Caesar . . . he dismisses them all with a curl of his lip, a click of his typewriter. The Wholesale Annihilator, that's him! Heap Big Chief Spit-in-Your-Eye.

Yea, man—the Smarty Pants is certainly plenty potent. Without half trying, he can kick any fairy tale in the stomach and expose any baby's teething ring. Have we, maybe, been cherishing a few old-fashioned ideals? Do we still choke at the mention of a mother's hand . . . or glow at the sight of the flag . . . or even believe in prayer? "Ha-ha!" sneers the Smarty Pants, "Lookit who's here—still sucking his itty bitty thumb!"

Which may be funny. And, again, may not be. But it serves, at least, to bring me where I aimed . . . namely, to the famous Mr. Boake Carter's recent satire on Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's daily column. In case you missed this October 24 masterpiece, let me state that Mr. Carter, being in a sprightly mood, evidently decided that it would be Perfectly Dandy to take a fall out of our Eleanor, and proceeded to do so by describing a lecture tour in her well-known style. Phrase by phrase, comment by comment, he mimicked the simple technique and philosophy of the First Lady of the Land. Even to such a characteristic comment as the following:

"A courteous telegraph boy on a bicycle directed us to the right route . . . such nice boys, telegraph boys . . . I've always liked them."

Before proceeding further, let me explain that Mr. Carter, I am told, was born in South Russia, educated in Cambridge, and did not become an American until 1933. So he possibly may have escaped the contaminating taint of our chivalrous attitude toward Nice Ladies in general and President's Wives in particular. He may even be so far emancipated that our crude American notions of kindness and courtesy are mere bushwah to his Mammoth Mind . . . and "courteous telegraph boys" a subject for Gargantuan guffaws.

But me—I'm just a native-born mutt, still ineffably sentimental after 20 years of column writing. So, having no superior traditions to maintain, I can come right out smack and state that I like telegraph boys, whether they're courteous or not, and I'm a million strong for that grand person, Eleanor Roosevelt. She may not be a literary light. I wouldn't know. But I can tell you this—

When it comes to giving a heart-broken woman courage to stand by her sick and desperate man—or nerve enough to march with her sick boy to the table which may prove his doom . . . Eleanor Roosevelt HAS WHAT IT TAKES! Her philosophy may be childish — SO WAS JESUS CHRIST'S. Her faith may be simple—SO WAS JOAN OF ARC'S. But I'll wager that her quiet courage and cheerfulness . . . her democratic friendliness . . . her sturdy sanity . . . have done more to hold this frightened nation steady in the face of chaos, than all the Smarty Pants' syndicated sneers!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It is 1:45 in the morning . . . Even the foliage of the artificial trees seems alive to the melodious barbaric rhythms that have come through the centuries from Africa via Cuba to New York . . . The atmosphere is definitely one of subtropic exoticism . . . On the dance floor, which is about as large as the rug on your guest-room floor, Helen Wills Moody, the tennis champion, is dancing . . . she is looking very feminine but the photographers aren't very pleased . . . The young man who is dancing with her refuses to reveal his identity.

After a while the photographers attempt to discover the young man's identity through the ruse of having a pretty cigarette girl pause and ask for autographs . . . Mrs. Moody says, "Sure, you may have mine, but not his—he can't write." . . . Which leaves the photographers just where they started.

* * *

EDDIE LeBARON, the orchestra leader and motion picture producer, comes in . . . At the moment he is unable to recall our name, so he covers up by slapping us on the shoulder and yells, "H'yah, you rat!" . . . LeBaron is the man who says, "If you can't learn to tango in 30 minutes, you can't learn in five years."

At an adjacent table a man who made a fortune out of hairpins is saying to a columnist: "I was in Shanghai when Ronald Coleman visited there . . . His brother is a customs official . . . After he arrived he told the newspapers he hoped they wouldn't bother him too much, as he needed a rest . . . So they ran a small item announcing that he was in the city. They never mentioned him again all the time he was there."

The music is playing again now, but only a few of the guests are dancing . . . Everybody seems bent on satisfying their hunger . . . Estelle and LeRoy, the dancers, are attacking club sandwiches . . . They have been away from New York 18 months, and seem glad to be back.

I am giving my attention to an order of the hottest chili con carne you ever saw . . . I like it hot . . . The hairpin king, behind dark glasses, and his companion will have nothing but champagne . . . It seems to me that champagne is really an over-rated drink . . . Maybe I'm wrong . . . But I would rather have one thimble of Metaxa brandy than a magnum of champagne . . . That's Greek brandy. You never know whether you're tasting or smelling it.

* * *

CAN that be John Buckmaster dancing with the girl in red? . . . It can be and is . . . John Buckmaster is the English actor who plays the role of Lord Alfred Douglas in "Oscar Wilde." . . . In the printed text of the play he is described as "a strikingly handsome youth," and he is.

Billy Rose thrusts his coal-black noggin through the door . . . It is the first time I've seen him in a nightclub that isn't his own in three years . . . Whither, Monsieur Rose? . . . "I'm looking for a bar," he says . . . "Several bars . . . No, not THAT kind of bar," indicating the rail where the drinks are made, "I want bars in waltz-time . . . I'm writing a song and I'm stumped . . . I've got about five or six bars to go."

People come in, others go out . . . Some you know, others you never heard of . . . It happens this way every night of the week, every week of the month, every month of the year . . . It's just a typical, every day nightclub scene in New York.

A Farmer's Diary

Take Time to Live.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

JUST after sun-up I saw two men hustling up the road to work. I heard one say to the other, "We'll have to step on it, or we won't get anything done."

The sun shone brightly on both their faces. The trees swayed in a crisp, fresh wind and scattered silent, fragrant leaves along their path. Late asters and dandelions bloomed about their hurrying feet. A lark sang and a late bluebird warbled a shy note.

As they came even with me, I saw that their faces were drawn and tense.

"Good morning," I said. "What's the hurry?"

"We must get to work," said one, with a short smile, and he went rapidly on. The other stopped to greet me.

"How soon must you be on the job?" I asked.

"Oh, there's a full half hour yet. That buddy of mine has the hurrying habit. I get sore at him sometimes."

"Wouldn't it be better," I suggested, "if everyone took time to enjoy a day like this? A man who doesn't is missing part of his life."

"Yes, I b'lieve that. My wife often tells me that there are many things worth more than clothes and food. A body's mind and soul need feeding too, or else he can't enjoy his life much. His wife's always nagging him about more money. They're both grouchy as the dickens, too."

"Your wife must be a real philosopher," said I.

"I have to hand it to her. We don't have much money or many conveniences at home, but she and I and the two kids are pretty happy. I often think if I could be like some good men I know, who never rush, but yet seem to get a lot done, I'd be satisfied to stay poor."

"Some of the richest men are poor in worldly goods," said I, smiling. "Not that a little more money would be such a great drawback to most of us."

"Bud's out of sight," he grinned. "If he wants to rush through the world like that, it's his affair. I'm going to take more time to live as I go along."

THEATERS

THE CASTLES, covering the period of 1911 to February, 1918, will be the first period picture in which Fred Astaire has ever appeared, and the first time that he has "died" on the screen. It will also be the first time that he hasn't worn his own clothes in a film. Vernon Castle was known as one of the best dressed men of his day, so Fred will have 20 changes of costume, and R-K-O will foot the bill. Ginger Rogers will play Irene Castle, and the real Irene Castle is in Hollywood to assist in directing the picture.

Program Change Wednesday.

The Bob Burns picture "Arkankansas people today, remains at the kasas people today, remains at the Madison through today and tomorrow the bill changes to "Girls on Probation," with a Charley Chase comedy, "The Mind Reader," as one of the short features.

* * *

History Fictionized.

"Suez" is another picture which takes an historical theme, but builds a fictitious story around it. Ferdinand de Lesseps, the romantic figure portrayed by Tyrone Power, and who was the engineer who conceived the idea for the Suez canal, was actually 54 years old when the canal was built. And after his dream was completed, he tried the same idea out in Panama, but it failed. The picture pictures de Lesseps as the man who loved an empress. Loretta Young and Annabelle in the cast. The picture is at the Ohio.

Rebellion Is Background.

The dramatic love story of an Irish patriot and an English girl, natural enemies, is movingly depicted in "Beloved Enemy," opening today at the Majestic. Brian Aherne is seen as Dennis Riordan, leader of an Irish revolt and on whose head there is a price, while Merle Oberon is the girl who accidentally meets him and falls in love with him. The second feature is a mystery which is solved by Peter Lorre as Mr. Moto, "Mysterious Mr. Moto."

Exaggerated Report.

A shy, retiring, but very famous painter is forced to lead a "double life" when a physician mistakes his butler for him and reports the butler's death as that of the great painter. Obituaries appear in all of the papers. This is the beginning of an entertaining comedy, "His Double Life," in which Roland Young and Lillian Gish are starred at the Park. Also on the bill is "White Woman" with Carole Lombard.

GETS 20 DAYS

Mansfielder Convicted of Assaulting Estranged Wife, Jailed.

Howard Williams, whose address was not listed in court records, was serving a 20-day sentence in county jail today on a charge of assault and battery.

Williams, who pleaded guilty in municipal court to the charge, was given a fine of $100 and costs and a 60-day jail sentence. The fine and 40 days of the sentence were suspended on good behavior.

Mrs. Williams, 151 West Third street, who filed the charges, testified that her husband, from whom she said she was separated, forced his way into her apartment and beat her.

ASKS $15,000 IN TRAFFIC DEATH

Administrator of Estate of Shelby Woman Names Oil Company Head in Suit.

A suit for $15,000 damages for the death of Mrs. Sarah Ruckman, 77, of Shelby, in a traffic accident west of Mansfield on Sept. 20, had been filed in common pleas court today by Atty. L. H. Beam, Mansfield, administrator of Mrs. Ruckman's estate.

Harry F. Spear, head of an oil company at Wheeling, W. Va., and driver of the car which collided with a light truck in which Mrs. Ruckman was riding, was named defendant in the case.

The petition, filed in behalf of the heirs of Mrs. Ruckman, charges that Spear was driving "more than 60 miles an hour" when his car hit the truck and that he did not have the car under control.

The accident occurred at the intersection of the Springmill-Lexington road and route 30N, four miles west of Mansfield. Spear's car crashed into the side of the truck which was driven onto the highway from the county road, officers said.

Mrs. Ruckman's son, Fred, 58, who was injured in the same crash, died two weeks ago in Mansfield General hospital.

GALION—Funeral services were held here Monday afternoon and burial was made in Fairview cemetery here for the infant daughter of Herman and Paul (Stinehelfer) Wiener of South Market street. The baby died Sunday in the Mansfield General hospital shortly after birth.

AFTERNOON CEREMONY PERFORMED AT HOME

Miss Miriam Palm, Lexington, Bride of Gaylord J. Nixon, Mansfield; Will Make Home In Neighboring City.

AT A QUIET home wedding Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with only the immediate families present, Miss Miriam Palm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Palm, Lexington, became the bride of Dr. Gaylord J. Nixon, son of Mrs Ray Nixon, South Main street road.

Rev. Glenn McKinley Sauder, read the single ring ceremony before an improvised altar decorated with chrysanthemums and fern. Preceding the ceremony the pastor's wife, Mrs. Sauder, played "Oh, Promise Me," "I Love You Truly" and the wedding march.

The unattended bride wore a dress of dubonnet crepe with black accessories and a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses. Upon their return from an eastern wedding trip the couple will make their home in Mt. Gilead where Dr. Nixon is opening an office of veterinary medicine.

The bride, who is a graduate of Lexington high school and Office Training school, has been employed at the Patron's Mutual Relief association of Bellville. Dr. Nixon has practiced at his office on South Main street road for the past two years following his graduation from Madison high school and Ohio State university at Columbus.

Relatives Attend Wedding Saturday Of Miss Johnston

Among the out-of-town weddings of the past week-end of interest to Mansfielders was the marriage Saturday at 8 p. m. of Miss Helen Johnston to Amos Alonzo Bolen. Miss Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marsh Johnston, Huntington, W. Va., is the niece of Miss Helen Hurst and Mrs. J. B. Lindley, both of Mansfield. Her mother is the former Miss Marguerite Hurst, also of this city.

Rev. S. Roger Tyler, rector of the Trinity Episcopal church, performed the ceremony before a candle and foliage decorated altar. Mr. Bolen, an attorney in Huntington, is the foster son of Mrs. Gertrude B. Mayo, Ashland, Ky.

Miss Hurst, Mrs. Lindley, Mrs. C. H. Stevens, another aunt of the bride, and Miss Mary Fulton, Rochester, N. Y., a cousin and bridesmaid, were present for the affair. The couple will be at home in Huntington after an eastern wedding trip.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY.

A family of mother, father and six children, all living in Mansfield, in addition to out-of-town guests and other relatives gathered recently to aid Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stecker, sr., 386 South Main street in celebrating their 55th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Stecker were married Oct 26, 1883, at Tiffin. They celebrated the anniversary with a picnic dinner at their home.

The children are Fred, jr., Charles J., Mrs. Charles Arnett, Mrs. Gordon Sowash, Mrs. Harry Schlegel and Mrs. Howard Miller. Of the seven grandchildren, J. Frederick Stecker, accompanied by Mrs. Stecker, Columbus, were the only ones present. The senior Mr. and Mrs. Stecker are natives of this vicinity.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Casual Clothes Make Hit With Younger Women of Fashion

That problem of what to wear after school is settled here with a soft ribbed sweater of gray-blue wool worn with a skirt of darker blue novelty crinkled flannel. The sweater is fastened with white pearl buttons and the skirt designed with group pleats.

One of those many plaid fall frocks inspired by the tartans of Scottish clans is designed of lightweight brown and beige wool with a warm terra cotta thread running through it. Gold globes make the buckle on the brown suede belt and the necklace and bracelet worn with it.

DOCTORS' WIVES.

Wives of Mansfield physicians will have a social meeting on the mezzanine floor of the Mansfield-Leland hotel tomorrow evening at 7 p. m. while their husbands are attending a district physicians' meeting in the hotel.

Accept New Member Monday At Round Table Group Meeting

FOLLOWING the dessert luncheon which was served to 21 members and five guests of the Round Table club yesterday by Mrs. W. J. Tappan, 308 Park avenue west, a business meeting was conducted and a program presented. Mrs. Lewis B. McCullough, former substitute member of the club, was accepted into active membership, and Mrs. B. F. Hagelbarger was taken as a new substitute member.

Mrs. H. L. Creveling spoke on the memorial library association, and asked the club to assist in providing books for the Latwill room. Mrs. B. L. Chase told of the plan to bring Mrs. Smith of Kenmore, ancestral home of the Washingtons, to Mansfield to show slides of the home on Nov. 9 and 10. Mrs. Herbert Schettler then spoke in behalf of the half mill levy for the care of tuberculosis patients, and asked for support of the levy.

"The Celebrated Strauss Family was the title of the paper presented by Mrs. J. H. Todd, who was assisted by Mrs. David Ireland, pianist, who played "Blue Danube Waltz."

Mrs. Todd reviewed the intimate happenings in the lives of the famous musical family, and explained the Strauss influence on waltz music. She concluded by playing the piano selection, "Voices of Spring."

Mrs. Carl Gibson, substituting for Mrs. E. O. Townsend, gave the current events on music. She read an article, "Swing Grows Up" by Larry Clinton, from a current magazine.

The next meeting has been advanced one day and will be held Nov. 8 with Mrs. Charles F. Harding as hostess.

ANTIQUE COLLECTION SHOWN IN CLEVELAND

Two Women From City Serve as Patronesses of Affair, Others Plan to Attend Five-Day Exhibit at Carter.

ANTIQUE collectors and students of art from all over Ohio and from several other states are beginning to congregate at the Carter hotel in Cleveland today for the Cleveland antique show. The affair officially opened last night with the Parade of Shawls presented by society leaders and debutantes of that city.

The exhibit, which opens at 11 a. m. today will continue through Friday with showings from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. daily. It was announced that the showing is being attended by 36 dealers from 10 states in addition to hundreds of lovers of art and antiques from Cleveland and neighboring cities.

Mrs. Charles G. Brown and her aunt, Mrs. Charles Voegele, are patronesses of the affair from Mansfield. Mrs. Brown expects to attend the show tomorrow. Others from Mansfield who will attend the exhibit are Mrs. Rufus King, Mrs. M. O. Doolittle and Mrs. Sherman Wentz. Members of the Mansfield Walkers club have been invited to attend the showing tomorrow. Several members of the Art Study club are also expecting to attend the exhibit some time during the week.
